MARKET AT NEW WESTMINSTER TAPS LARGE FARMING DISTRICT

Distributing Centre for Farmers of Fraser River Valley and Adjoining Districts Has Demonstrated Its Value to Producer and Consumer

Successful Public Market of Terminal City is Doing Larger Business Every Year; Farmer Makes Larger Profits
on His Produce

The non-enthusiasts and the doubters may be quite ready to throw sand in the eyes of those who maintain the possible benefits of the introduction here of a public city market, but there is no gainsaying the splendid success which this institution has achieved in other places.

The prime incentive to its establishment may be the demand of the public for cheaper food; it may be the urgent claims of the farmer to his right of a public place where he may dispose of his produce. But the result in either case is the same, and is twofold in its benefits in that it lessens the cost of food to the consumer, and increases the profits of the farmer.

At New Westminster the system has now been in vogue for the last 24 years, and every year that passes seems to prove more forcibly than the last, the wonderful efficiency of this method of transacting business between producer and consumer. At the time that it was established there was little idea of making the market anything other than a small central exchange where the few nearby agriculturists and housewives might find ready buyers for their garden, farm and dairy produce among people who were not able to buy them elsewhere. Once established, the market became a habit. It is to the farmer to-day what it was more than a score of years ago, a place where he can dispose of his produce, and, at the same time, be certain to see all his brother farmers in a social and business way. To the citizens of New Westminster, Burnaby, Chilliwack, and even Vancouver, it is a popular department grocery where the very finest fresh garden produce, home-slaughtered meats, dairy products, honey, fish, poultry, flowers, etc., can be obtained at the producer's prices.

A Big Crowd.

In the first capacity it attracts on market day (Friday), during the busier months of the year, as many as 350 and 400 farmers with their week's produce, while the number who purchase their week's supplies within the spacious precincts of the market hall can scarcely be estimated. Among the latter are not only the consumers, but numerous middlemen who have come to a type of jobbing centre for the purpose of making terms for carloads of potatoes, apples, hay and other commodities handled in large quantities, while the sight of an aproned local butcher, fresh from his own block, inspecting the meat racks for a freshly slaughtered beef or veal, is not unusual.

The amount of business transacted is astonishing, and the area which is enabled profitably to dispose of its products has gradually extended far beyond the original purposes of the scheme. From a distributing centre for a few local farmers the New Westminster market to-day serves as a sales point for Hazelton and points adjoining the boundary line, through the Great Northern; for Vale, Hazelton, Agassiz, Maple Ridge, etc., through the Canadian Pacific Railway; and for Chilliwack and points far up the Fraser valley through the British Columbia Electric railway and the Canadian Northern. Each of these railways runs directly past the market entrance, the British Columbia Electric carrying two special baggage cars every Friday for the express purpose of conveying the farmers' produce to this point.

The River's Part.

In addition to all these, however, and greater in importance than all put together in that it conveys to the city market more than 60 per cent of all the produce which arrives there, is the Fraser river itself, the broad waters of which sweep right past the other side of the building, where a splendid water frontage of 350 feet, or for the length of the market, with an excellent wharf throughout its entire length, provides one of the most important factors in the efficiency of New Westminster's public market. It is easy at a glance of the map to see what areas are tapped by means of the river, and as the cheapness of transportation by water is well-known it is also easy to conceive how the farmer who ships his produce in large quantities by such a medium is enabled to sell his fruit and vegetables at the best possible prices from the consumer's standpoint.

The farmers' habits of early rising stand him in good stead in the case of those who live at a distance from town. About 60 per cent of the producers drive to the city every Friday with their several marketable products, many living as far distant as twenty-five miles. To these the day must afford something by way of genuine excitement, as nothing short of rising before sunrise would bring them into town in time to compete favorably with others who have taken up their stand shortly after 6 o'clock in the morning.

Picturesque Scene.

The interior of the market building on Friday presents an interesting scene which is not devoid of picturesque features. The main hall is about 130 yards in length, and about one-third this distance in width. The entrances are at the extreme ends of the north wall of the building, between which is a broad runway, sufficiently wide for a pair of horses and a wagon, while just beside this on one side are the meat racks with the big beefs, calves, and sides of pork, on the other side being the neat hencoops provided by the market authorities, where live birds are kept until such time as their purchasers decide on their removal. Here, too, not seldom, one may see rabbits and unhappily-destined pigs which have not yet grown out of the fascinating stage of babyhood, while an occasional grunt-

HOME RULE BATTLE WILL BEGIN JUNE 3

Plural Voting Abolition Passes
Second Reading on 314
Votes to 227

London, May 5.—The government bill to abolish plural voting has been read a second time in the House of Commons. The only spoken opposition to it came from F. E. Smith, the brilliant young Unionist barrister, who moved its rejection. The amendment was, however, defeated by 314 votes to 227.

Political prisoners in Portugal are ill-treated in a shocking manner, according to the Dowager Duchess of Bedford, who has been giving the fact wide publication. The matter came up in the House of Commons to-day when F. D. Acland, in reply to a question, said that the foreign office had not communicated with the Portuguese government in connection with the Duchess's statements. A few days ago one of the Portuguese ministers referred to scathing terms to this lady.

The battle over the Home Rule bill will begin all over again on June 3, when it will be introduced a second time, passed and sent up to the Lords again, according to an announcement made to-day by the chancellor of the exchequer. Everybody expects the Upper House to throw the measure out again, when it will be presented a third time and passed over the heads of that body.

The rural housing bill has been withdrawn, the government having refused to find the money to carry out the scheme. The measure was considered wrong in principle and the cabinet put a heavy foot down on it.

SCOTTISH LIBERALS ASKING HOME RULE

Measure Drafted Provides for Single Chamber With Hundred and Forty Members

London, May 5.—Home Rule for Scotland will be the next radical change in the political structure of Great Britain if a bill drafted by the Scottish Liberals gets to its final stage. The measure provides for a single chamber, composed of 140 members, the present constituencies to be maintained, with the exception of the universities. Scotland is to be represented in the imperial parliament until England and Wales have adopted a system of devolution.

In the Scottish bill financial provision has been made similar to that contained in the Irish bill, with the exception that the post office and the customs are not to be controlled by the Scottish parliament.

NEW HOSPITAL OPENED.

New Westminster, May 5.—The new provincial public hospital for the insane at Mount Coquitlam known as the Essondale wing has been completed and opened for general use. There have been 340 male patients transferred to the new institution from New Westminster. This relieves the congestion in the local institution.

MILITANCY HOLDS ATTENTION OF LONDON

WILD DISORDER AT TRAFALGAR SQUARE

Free Speech Meeting

SUFFRAGETTES REFUSED PERMISSION TO SPEAK

Militant Women Marched With Dockers Waving Banners
and Hoist Their Flags

POLICE AND PEOPLE IN GENERAL FIGHTS

London, May 5.—Wild scenes of disorder occurred yesterday at the demonstration in Trafalgar Square, under the auspices of the free speech defence committee. The police tried to prevent speeches from the Whitehall side of the Nelson column, and only the intervention of James Keir Hardie, M. P., who was chairman of the meeting, prevented a serious riot. As it was, the disorders, many times culminating in fistuffs between the crowd and the police, continued for almost two hours.

By the time the marching Socialists, Labor and other organizations, with bands playing the Marseillaise, reached Trafalgar Square, twenty thousand persons had gathered there and as many more in the surrounding streets. Permission to hold a meeting was given at the last moment on condition that no suffragettes be allowed to speak.

Unable to secure permission to march as an organization, the suffragettes of the Women's Social and Political Union marched with the dockers, their colors flying, preceded by a huge banner inscribed, "Where There's a Will, There's a Way." Flags of the Women's Social and Political Union were hoisted on the plinth from which they waved continuously during the meeting.

Trouble began when a Socialist speaker started to address the crowd from the Whitehall side of the column. The promise had been given that no speaking should take place on this side, because of interference with traffic. A husky police sergeant standing on the plinth, pushed the speaker down on the heads of the crowd below.

The crowd then rushed the plinth and endeavored to replace the speaker. It looked for a time as if their efforts would prove successful, but mounted police overpowered the rioters. Mr. Hardie intervened and the Socialist speaker was allowed to regain his place.

In a moment a suffragette attempted to climb to the plinth. The police below tried to pull her back, but sympathizers on the platform succeeded in dragging her up after she had sacrificed some clothes left in the hands of the police.

A policeman snatched a suffragette banner from a girl who was waving it from the back of one of the Landseer stions. She struck the policeman in the face and her friends regained the banner, minus the staff. This struggle angered the crowd and the disorder became so general that Commissioner Wells, commanding the mounted police, ordered the Whitehall side cleared. The commissioner was showered with eggs, oranges and other missiles.

Fights between the police and the people became general, the chief results of which were battered faces and minor injuries on both sides. Many rioters were arrested but the crowd succeeded in rescuing most of the prisoners. Requested to do so by the police, Mr. Hardie asked the crowd to disperse, which they did reluctantly.

Mrs. Despard and other suffragettes spoke without interference in spite of the interdiction. Any attempt to arrest the women in the temper of the assembly probably would have resulted in a dangerous situation.

Addresses denouncing the government's alleged interference with the right of free speech were made by several members of parliament. A letter was read from George Lansbury, former Socialist member of parliament and now a militant leader in the suffrage cause, who was recently arrested and released on $5,000 bond to keep the peace.

SPAIN MAY JOIN IN WITH THREE POWERS

Paris, May 4.—The approaching visit to the French capital of King Alfonso of Spain is regarded as of considerable significance for Europe. It is said it may mean the entrance of Spain into the friendly understanding known as the Triple Entente between France, Great Britain and Russia. Alfonso arrives here on Wednesday. After a stay of two days, crowded with innumerable entertainments, the King will leave on Friday, after witnessing a review of military armaments and aeroplanes just before his departure.

CHARGES PRESSED AGAINST MILITANTS

Counsel in Conspiracy Charge
Calls "General" Mrs. Drummond Unscrupulous Woman

PROPOSED DAMAGE TO STOCKYARDS DISCLOSED

London, May 5.—Great interest is being manifested in the police court proceedings against the suffragette leaders, held on charges of conspiracy under the malicious damage act, which were resumed at Bow street to-day. Archibald Bodkin, the prosecuting counsel for the treasury, in opening the case, described the law of conspiracy, and said the defendants had been meeting together constantly. He referred to "General" Mrs. Drummond as a "violent and unscrupulous woman." He said Clayton, the chemist, in whose possession were found documents describing a plan of campaign for burning down buildings in London, had put his brains at the disposal of the woman for carrying out crimes and producing what their own paper described as a "reign of terror" in London.

In illustrating the control exercised by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst over the "wild women," Mr. Bodkin called attention to her declaration of a truce word from her, he said, militancy stopped only to be resumed at her command when the bill was withdrawn.

Another letter read by Mr. Bodkin referred to a proposal by the suffragettes to damage stockyards in Great Britain. The cost of the scheme, $100,000, was probably the reason why it was not immediately accepted. The letter said: "The results of the job would be splendid."

When Mrs. Beatrice Saunders was arrested and searched at the militant headquarters she attempted to destroy a letter giving details of the investments made by the Women's Social and Political Union in foreign bonds.

A number of cheques for large amounts were found. In concluding his address for the prosecution, Mr. Bodkin asked the magistrate to send all the defendants for trial at the sessions.

After some police evidence had been given, the magistrate remanded most of the accused again until Thursday. Three of the women, however, were admitted to bail in $5,000 each.

"General" Mrs. Drummond and Miss Annie Kenney, who were among those held without bail, created a scene in the prisoners' enclosure by shouting: "We will start a hunger strike," and "you may not see us here on the next occasion unless we are carried."

Drew, the printer, apologized for printing a single issue of The Suffragette, and gave bonds in $5,000 not to repeat the offence. He then was released.

CHURCHILL GAINING CONFIDENCE IN NAVY

Present Situation Most Tangled Toile Ever Presented
Says Viscount Morley

PREDICTS SOLUTION WITHIN YEAR'S TIME

London, May 5.—"The more I know about the British navy the more I have confidence in it," said Hon. Winston Churchill, first lord of the Admiralty, at the annual banquet of the Royal Academy Saturday night. The first lord said that the navy was great, not merely in respect to numbers, but especially with regard to quality of the ships and men. He declared that the maintenance of an adequate military establishment was essential to an effective naval defence.

Viscount Morley, of Blackburn, described the present situation as the most tangled tangle that ever confronted European diplomacy in this generation. The spirit of persistency and the firm and active policy of the British government, however, was the most perfect instrument they could have for the attainment of the common ends. He understood that there was every reason to believe that on May next they would be in sight of a solution that might be ultimately agreed to.

SUFFRAGE BILL UP ON SECOND READING

Six Million Women Would Vote
If Terms of Measure
Passed

VOTE IS EXPECTED TO-MORROW NIGHT

Provides Franchise for Those Who Have Attained Age of Twenty-Five

ELEVEN MEMBERS ARE BACKING THE PROPOSAL

London, May 5.—The struggle for woman suffrage began again in the House of Commons when the second reading was moved of Wiloughby Dickinson's women's franchise bill. Whether this measure, which proposes to enfranchise 6,000,000 women, shall be given a fighting chance or the whole question buried for the lifetime of the present parliament will be settled to-morrow night. The vital sections of the brief bill are as follows:

"1. Every woman who, (a) if she were a man would be entitled to be registered as a parliamentary elector in respect of a household qualification within the meaning of the representation act of 1834; or (b) is the wife of a man entitled to be registered in respect of a household qualification and has resided in the qualifying premises during the period required by law to enable a person to so register."

"2. A woman shall not be entitled to be registered unless she has attained the age of twenty-five years."

"3. A woman shall not be disqualified by reason of marriage from being registered and voting."

The bill is backed by seven Liberals, two Unionists and two Labor members. While it meets the wishes of most of the men supporters of woman suffrage, it does not go far enough for others. The parties are so hopelessly divided, and even the members of the cabinet are so widely set asunder on the question that a forecast of the outcome of the debate is most difficult.

The members, when they arrived at the House to-day, had to run the gauntlet of many women parading the precincts carrying sandwich boards with placards directed at the cabinet ministers, such as "Traitor Asquith," "Deport Reginald McKenna and Chancellor Hobhouse."

FIND BOMB IN POST OFFICE IN LONDON

London, May 5.—A bomb containing sufficient nitro-glycerine to demolish the great building was found among the packages contained by the parcels post at the Southeastern District post office to-day. No clue was obtained in the police attack suspicion to the militant suffragettes.

The metallic sound of the parcel aroused suspicion among the employees, several hundred of whom were on duty at the time. The package was plunged into water and the police who were called, opened it and found it filled with gunpowder, a quantity of slugs and a tube of nitro-glycerine.

MICHEL ORESTE IS NEW PRESIDENT OF HAYTI

Port au Prince, Hayti, May 5.—Michel Oreste, the new president of the republic of Hayti, elected yesterday, has already displayed great energy in the suppression of disorder in the city, and declares he will maintain peace with a strong hand. General de Fy, governor of the city who attacked the parliamentary building during the voting for the presidency yesterday, was repulsed by the police troops commanded by General Poitevin. General de Fy fled and took refuge in the Cuban legation.

MONTENEGRO SUBMITS TO EUROPE WILL EVACUATE SCUTARI AT ONCE

Announcement of Surrender Made To-day by Sir Edward Grey at Ambassadors' Meeting at London; Unbounded
Satisfaction Felt Throughout Continent

King Nicholas Says His Dignity and That of the Montenegrins Do Not Permit Him to Submit to Isolated Imposition

London, May 5.—Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, announced at to-day's meeting of the ambassadors that Montenegro had unconditionally placed the question of the future of Scutari in the hands of the European powers.

The decision reported by King Nicholas at the last moment had the effect of relieving immediate tension in European politics. It caused unbounded satisfaction to diplomats and the general public. The stock exchange responded at once.

Berlin, May 5.—No conditions were mentioned by Montenegro to-day when she informed the German foreign office that she had decided to place Scutari in the hands of the powers. On the other hand, the foreign advisers say, there is no evidence that any concrete step in this direction has yet been taken and doubt is expressed by officials as to the veracity of the reports that Montenegro has already evacuated the city.

No date for the evacuation of Scutari by the Montenegrin troops was given in the communication received here from Cetinje, but there is reason to believe that the German minister in the Montenegrin capital received assurances from King Nicholas that the first steps would be taken within twenty-four hours.

AMBASSADOR SHOWS DEMOCRATIC SPIRIT

British Representative at Washington Assists Injured
Street Car Conductor

Washington, D. C., May 5.—Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the ambassador from Great Britain, although only a few days a successor to James Bryce, has already shown the same democratic characteristics that sent his predecessor to the capital. It developed to-day that while the ambassador was on his way to the Chevy Chase Club in the embassy automobile the chauffeur became confused as to the direction.

"Stop and we will inquire the way," ordered the ambassador, observing a young man approaching on foot. "Can you direct us to the Chevy Chase Club?" he inquired of the pedestrian, who stepped into the roadway as the car came to a stop.

The man was almost immediately struck by a car tearing cityward. "Are you hurt?" asked Sir Cecil, jumping from the motor. The young man, who proved to be a street car conductor off duty, replied that he was not, but found that his legs were injured and that he could not walk. Despite his protests he was hoisted into the embassy car and taken to his home. Sir Cecil carrying him in. The ambassador will make inquiry into his condition to-day.

House of Lords Delivers Judgment on Question of Closed Doors

London, May 5.—An end was put to-day to the possibility of secret proceedings in divorce and other suits in the United Kingdom by a judgment delivered by the House of Lords, sitting as the highest court of appeals. The divorce court had adjudged a Mrs. Scott guilty of contempt of court in circulating among her friends the report of a case heard in camera in which she had been accused of infidelity, but had been vindicated.

The lord chancellor's opinion, in which the other law lords concurred, reverses the judgment for contempt of court. "The lord chancellor declares: 'Every court of justice in the land is open to every subject of the king, and a court has no power to sit otherwise than with open doors.'"

DAYLIGHT ROBBERY
AT BULLFINCH MINE

Perth, W. A., May 5.—Thieves made a big haul of gold from the retort house of the Bullfinch mine, the latest sensational gold find in Western Australia. After holding up the official they got away with 588 ounces of gold valued at $15,000. The thieves were well armed and masked, and as the police in the vicinity of Bullfinch are scarce it is likely that they will never be apprehended. The robbery was perpetrated in broad daylight but the robbers were unidentified.

ASKS FOR COHESION OF SCOUTS AND SCHOOLS

London, May 5.—Asking that there be more cohesion between the schools and the Boy Scout movement, General Baden-Powell waited on the education board as a deputation. J. A. Paine, on behalf of the board, stated in reply that a certain number of parents are afraid of such a scheme, inasmuch as they think it would be merely a military movement to secure compulsory military service. In view of this fact he regretted that he could take no steps in the matter.

ENGINEERS' DISPUTE SUBJECT OF ENQUIRY

Canadian Pacific Sufferer Over
Railway Brotherhood Question of Promotion

Winnipeg, Man., May 5.—The Canadian Pacific Railway to-day finds itself on the horns of a dilemma. In the systems two different engineer's organizations are employed and the one body objects to the present system of promotions, while the other wants the status maintained. No question of wages is involved and outside of employing members of unions, for the moment opposing each other, the Canadian Pacific railway has no part in the struggle. In this war between two railway brotherhoods the whole Canadian Pacific railway system is the chief sufferer. The conciliation board appointed to inquire into the trouble, consisting of Dr. Adam Shortt, chairman; J. H. Wellington, representing the Canadian Pacific Railway, and D. Campbell, representing the men, had its first sitting Saturday afternoon. The sittings of the board will not be open, however, to the public. In a brief interview on his arrival in the city, Dr. Shortt gave some inkling as to the trouble, but because of his position as arbitrator he could not discuss the facts until he had heard both sides. He was, however, inclined to think the dispute was between the firemen and engineers and not between the Canadian Pacific and its employees. Dr. Shortt added that the whole system might be affected.

COMMISSION HINTS AT NEW LABOR LAWS

Armstrong District Views Are Heard on Wage and Oriental Immigration Questions

MIXED FARMING IS URGED TO WITNESSES

Armstrong, B. C., May 2.—A meeting of the labor commission held in the hall in the Wolfenden block, although well advertised, was very poorly attended. Questions were put to a number of visitors present relative to the labor problem and its possible solution, the high cost of living, the Oriental immigration problem, the sanitary conditions of the town, the hours of labor and wages paid locally, as well as general expression of opinion on these problems and upon proposed legislation governing the same. The general evidence submitted tended to show that there was a shortage of laborers here of the right sort, and it was also shown there was a strong feeling in favor of further restricting Oriental immigration. It was intimated by the commission that legislation was proposed governing the rate of pay and hours of service of unskilled labor. The request had been made to have the work-day throughout the province made an eight-hour one and the pay set at $4, with also a weekly half-holiday on Saturday. These are measures, however, that will not have any very large support generally, and those giving evidence did not think them at all workable. It was further shown by the evidence that the price paid for labor here was very high, wages by the month running as high as $50 and $60. Among those giving evidence before the commission were Mayor Wright, F. C. Wolfenden, T. N. Hayes, A. Fowler, A. E. Morgan, F. T. Jackson and T. Clinton. One point which was forcibly emphasized was that if more mixed farming were gone into here it would be a decided advantage and a means to keep down the present high cost of living.

DAWSON FIRE LOSS HUNDRED THOUSAND

Electric Light Plant Destroyed
When Switchboard Fuse
Burnt Out

Dawson, Y. T., May 5.—The plant of the Dawson Electric Light & Power Company was entirely destroyed by fire last night. It was the source of the city's water and light, supplying the fire hydrants and the domestic service for the whole city. A few hours after the fire the hydro-electric company's plant on the north fork of the Klondike Creek was connected with the cables, and a good service given.

The Northern Commercial Company is supplying water from its private system until the service can be re-established with emergency arrangements within the next day or two. The fire loss is estimated at $100,000, chiefly on the machinery of the plant. The usual service of water being cut off, two emergency fire engines were brought into action on the river bank, and the spread of the fire was prevented. The only other building destroyed was the old abandoned brewery structure.

The fire originated from a fuse burning out on the switchboard in the plant, which was running in parallel with the north fork hydro-electric lines to carry heavy loads due to the working of several of the Yukon Gold Company's dredges which had been connected with the service during the last few days.

WATCHMAN ATTACKED BY ESCAPED CONVICT

Police of Border Towns Are Notified to Search for Henry Brewer

Vancouver, May 5.—With officers of the provincial police in close pursuit, a man believed to be Henry Brewer, the dangerous convict who escaped a few weeks ago from the local jail, is attempting to cross the American boundary line this morning, following a brutal attack on the night watchman of the bridge over the Fraser river at New Westminster late last night. But for the presence of an extra high handrail, the watchman would have been thrown to certain death into the river by his assailant.

United States immigration officials as well as the police of all the border towns have been notified of the man's escape. The attack occurred almost in the centre of the bridge, while the watchman was walking north on the regular rounds. Brewer had just come from that direction, and apparently had premeditated his attack. When he finally wrenched himself loose, he ran rapidly towards Liverpool and disappeared.

WEST DRAINS THE EAST OF TEACHERS

National Council of Women
Hears Reports on Many Subjects

Montreal, May 5.—The National Council of Women on Saturday received reports of standing committees on educational features of the Dominion, deploring that the better pay offered the teaching profession in Western Canada was being felt in the eastern provinces in scarcity of teachers and poorer material.

Miss Machar, of Kingston, urged establishing bands of mercy in the public schools to teach the children kindness to animals. Mrs. Byers, of Sarnia, advocated textbooks in the public school system that would give a clean, sensible idea of human development and sex hygiene. Miss Derick pointed out that such textbooks must be very carefully prepared, and teachers must be obtained to teach such subjects. Miss Peters, of St. John, N. B., urged that compulsory school attendance be enforced in rural districts as well as in towns.

Kingston council urged the widespread establishment of night schools and a recognized system of education. A ninety per cent. of scholars in the Dominion never go up to the high schools and fifty per cent. do not go beyond the third book. It was felt to be essential to press the cause of the night schools.

Women on school boards throughout the Dominion will be advocated by the national council.

OKANAGAN EXPECTS TO HAVE HEAVY CROP

Population of Inland Centre
Growing With Many New Buildings Being Constructed

Vernon, B. C., May 5.—The crop conditions of the Okanagan this season are very good; 371 carloads of fruit were shipped from Vernon last year; double this amount will be shipped this fall, and the unity of interests established ensures better marketing for the crop. Other districts of this province are organizing so as to secure government aid and more economy in producing, selling and handling the present season's crop.

Vernon is rapidly increasing her population of 5,500, with the influx of people from the Channel Islands, Belgium and the South of England, who are arriving to engage in fruit culture and building operations which are going forward at a rapid rate. The new court house, now being erected, is the finest structure in the interior of British Columbia, and will cost a quarter of a million dollars. A granite quarry a few miles from town is being used and will be marketable throughout the province. A new post office and custom house has been finished at a cost of $50,000, and a new hospital costing $75,000. Preliminary work has begun on the Royal Bank building, which will cost $60,000; new drill hall, $18,000, and two schools to cost about $60,000 each are to be commenced this spring. It is probable that the schools will be constructed of limestone recently uncovered within a mile of the city limits. Many new stores are going up in Vernon and are greatly needed.

SMALL VOTE POLLED ON NANAIMO STRIKE

Over Ninety Per Cent. of Those Who Balloted Favored Returning to Work

Nanaimo, B. C., May 5.—Although well organized efforts were made by union representatives to call out all mine workers in Nanaimo district, when the question was decided by ballot on Saturday over ninety per cent. of the votes cast were in favor of fulfilling the agreements with the mine owners and continuing work this morning. The vote was taken in the courthouse, and all hotels and saloons were closed by order of the mayor. Perfect order prevailed in the municipality. Over two thousand men were interested in the decision, and the result is gratifying to the general public. The feeling throughout the city is now more optimistic than at any time during present stage.

Of the two thousand miners, but 478 cast ballots on the question: "Shall we live up to our agreement and go to work?" 422 voted yes and 44 no, two ballots being spoiled.

At the conclusion of the vote the joint committee representing the miners and members of the United Mine Workers issued the following manifesto: "The vote cast to-day was 422 in favor of going to work, and 44 against. This on the face of it is a handsome majority of the votes cast, but in view of the silliness of the vote, we deem it inadvisable to go to work. While we do not admit a defeat, we of their convictions and came out to vote just to keep quiet and await developments. (Signed) The Committee."

THREE DIE SUDDENLY IN CITY OF CALGARY

John E. Metcalfe Takes His Life, John Gallivan Sustains Fall, Ernest Green Succumbs

Calgary, May 5.—Three sudden deaths have occurred in Calgary since Friday. John E. Metcalfe committed suicide by shooting himself. John Gallivan, while delirious from illness, wandered off the second-storey verandah of the Holy Cross hospital and received injuries from which he died last night. Ernest Green, who died suddenly in a rooming house yesterday morning.

Financial difficulties led to the suicide of Metcalfe. He was thirty-six years of age and leaves a wife and three children. He was an employee of the Alberta Grain Exchange, and is said to be well connected in England. Gallivan was suffering from typhoid fever and was taken to the hospital several days ago. He was twenty-six years of age.

Green was about twenty-five years of age, and had recently arrived in Calgary from Huntingdonshire, Eng. Apparently in the best of health, he went out in the morning and after breakfast returned to his lodgings, where he collapsed and died before medical aid could be summoned.

CANADIAN NORTHERN TRACK AT KAMLOOPS

Anticipate Completion to Albretha Summit by End of Year

Kamloops, May 5.—Track laying on the Canadian Northern along the North Thompson river on the Kamloops stretch has commenced, the section which is being laid down now, extends from bridge No. 10 a twelve-span structure, about three miles north of this city. Work on the construction of this bridge will be started as soon as the bridge engineers arrive on the ground which will be some time this week.

The C. N. R. officials expect that all contracts on this section of the line extending from Kamloops to Albretha Summit, the eastern terminus of the division, will be completed by the end of this year. This stretch of the line measures 152 miles.

Work has been practically completed on the Battle Bluff tunnel and most of the machinery has been removed, all there is remaining to be done being the levelling and surfacing of the road bed.

Rails for tracks between Kamloops and Port Mann contain six thousand tons of 80-pound rails included in the shipment to cover a stretch of 48 miles between Port Mann and Kamloops. Another shipment of rails of 6,000 tons will be shipped out of Sydney, to-day for Port Mann. One hundred miles of this section of the line has been laid down already.

HOUSE MAY PROROGUE BEGINNING OF JUNE

Naval Bill Discussion Expected To-morrow and Passage by Friday Morning

Ottawa, May 5.—It is rumored here that a determined effort will be made by the government to secure the prorogation of the House by early in June. If this is done it is said to be possible that the bank act, which has been considered in committee for the past two months, will go over until another session. The Commons could in all probability pass it before June, but no time would be left for its consideration by the Senate.

The expectation is that consideration of the naval bill will be resumed by the Commons to-morrow and that the government will endeavor to ensure its passage this week. This can be done by the application of the new closure rules without much delay, and if discussion is commenced again to-morrow it would not be surprising if the final division takes place at 2 o'clock Friday morning.

The proceedings will be in connection with the first application of the closure and it is expected there will be some scenes.

VARIED RESULTS IN FRIEDMANN'S CASES

Ottawa Physicians Comment Favorably on the German Scientists' Treatment

Ottawa, May 5.—Dr. F. F. Friedmann, the German physician who claims to have a cure for tuberculosis, re-examined eight of his former patients here Saturday, noted improvement in some, none in others, and in one case apparent accentuation of the disease. Four received a second injection of the culture, while two, as was the case in Montreal, refused the second treatment.

Three local physicians, Doctors A. T. Shillington, F. W. Gorrell and J. K. Gordon, superintendent of the Lady Grey Hospital for Consumptives, issued statements commenting favorably on the result in cases under their observation since the first treatment.

Dr. Gordon, who is a well-known authority on the disease, said there had been remarkable improvement in the cases he had been observing.

FIREMAN ON TRAIN LOSES THE ENGINEER

Searchers Now Dragging the Creek by Track for Missing Man's Body

Salt Lake City, Utah, May 5.—As Union Pacific eastbound train No. 2, the Overland Limited, was nearing Church Buttes, Wyoming, last night, Fireman J. B. Hurley discovered that Engineer Alfred Nelson was missing from his post. The train was stopped, and then run back over the road for several miles, but no trace of the missing engineer could be found. It is not known how long the train had been running without an engineer, but it is believed that Nelson was knocked from his seat as the train passed over a bridge which spans Blacksmith's Fork Creek about ten miles from Church Buttes.

After searching for two hours the train proceeded to Granger, Wyo., and another engineer was supplied. A searching party is now dragging the creek for Nelson's body.

RECORD IS AGAINST IT.

Our contemporary says the drydock to be constructed at Esquimalt will form part of the naval programme of Canada. It adds:

"We look confidently for the consummation of the other features for the defence of this coast and the proper protection of British interests on the Pacific ocean which we have always contended for as essential."

We confess that in the interests of this province we would like to share the confidence of the morning paper with regard to the permanent policy of the government, for, we presume, it is to that our contemporary refers. Unfortunately the record stands between us and the outlook. In the first place Mr. Borden has said that he has not yet given consideration to the subject of a permanent policy, which will require time and care in its elaboration.

No public man or journal in close touch with the government has even hinted that Mr. Borden will propose a Canadian naval organisation involving a fleet unit on the Pacific. The Prime Minister himself less than three months ago derided the fleet unit idea and said that such a force would be ineffective on this coast. His minister of naval service announced that the government proposed to repeal the present naval law. Attempts have been made to prove not only that we cannot build a dreadnought, which everybody knows, but that it would be impracticable for us even to attempt the construction of those cruisers and destroyers which are as necessary to a dreadnought as is life blood to a human being. Since 1910 Mr. Borden and his party have persistently voted against legislation in connection with a Canadian naval organisation and in every parliamentary session of the late administration since then opposed the estimates of expenditure required in carrying this policy into operation. If the government contemplated a permanent policy involving the establishment of a fleet unit on the Pacific, all it had to do was to adopt the principle in the amendment submitted by Sir Wilfrid Laurier six months ago, instead of laboring with memoranda to show that the opposition scheme was impossible. Finally we think our point is established by the memorandum recently issued from Ottawa to the commanders of the Niobe and Rainbow announcing that those Canadians who do not desire to remain on the ships will be granted free discharge. This means that the government intends to discontinue training recruits on these vessels and practically writes this to the Canadian navy idea.

We notice that the naval correspondent of the London Chronicle states that the world service squadron to be composed in part of the proposed Canadian and Malay ships will be "the beginning" of a new department of the naval service. In other words the dominions will be expected to do their part in making the squadron a permanent thing. This is the opinion of most British writers on naval affairs, and it pretty effectually supports our contention that Mr. Borden's present proposal is merely the commencement of a system of permanent contributions. We on the Pacific can be excused for an absence of enthusiasm over a new squadron to be stationed at Gibraltar. We prefer to have a fleet unit on this coast in spite of Mr. Borden's declaration that it would be ineffective.

The main purpose for the establishment of the big docks at Esquimalt, Halifax and Quebec is to provide for the growing demands of our shipping. Immense liners will soon be plying to and from Canadian ports on both oceans and new docks will be absolutely necessary for repairs to them. But they will not form part of any permanent naval programme in this country as long as Mr. Borden persists in his present opposition to a Canadian navy.

OAK BAY BY-LAWS.

Congratulations are in order to the electors of Oak Bay for their endorsement of the by-laws submitted on Saturday for their verdict, and it is evident by the large majority in their favor, that each of the three by-laws passed is regarded as most desirable in the interests of the community and the advancement of the district. Victoria is always interested in matters that concern one of the most beautiful of her suburbs, and the always advancing policy of the little municipality has been ever regarded with affectionate concern as keeping pace with the progress of the city itself. In another way the result of the ballot, is in a measure an endorsement of the early work of the new reeve and his council, and as such will give them fresh encouragement in outlining policies which will work out to the best advantage of the district over which they have control.

Sportsmen all over the province will also rejoice at the result of one of the by-law decisions, namely, that dealing with the Oak Bay Golf Links. Welders of the cleek and maul never yet found a more beautiful course on which to exercise their skill, and it is certain that the surrendering of the links would have been instrumental in depriving this island of one of her chief assets. The grant of $10,000 towards the building of the new Jubilee hospital and of $50,000 for the purchasing of a new public park is also assured by the result of the ballot which showed a large majority in each case, no doubt to the great satisfaction of Reeve Rattenbury and his colleagues. The by-law assuring the purchase of a park is important in that it ensures for Oak Bay, at such time as the building activities which are so prevalent to-day have used up most of the vacant plots of land, the existence of a playground and park which shall serve as the "lungs" of the place in years to come.

CANADA'S DAIRY PRODUCE.

We have to hand a copy of the review of the dairy produce trade of Canada recently issued from Ottawa, which contains many interesting statistics and deductions therefrom as to this most important branch of Canadian trade. Taken on the whole the figures are most disappointing, and cannot be regarded otherwise even by the most ardent optimist. For instance we are confronted by the statement at the beginning of the booklet that the export of butter from Canada during 1930 was the smallest since 1850. But this is not the most serious; it also states the astonishing fact that Canada, hitherto regarded as one of the great dairying countries of the world, has imported far more butter during 1930 than she exported. Under these conditions the Dominion must be listed among the butter importing countries of the world.

Just how serious the defection is may be gathered by comparing the official statement of 1911 with that of last year. In 1911 close on ten millions of pounds of butter were shipped from Canadian ports to foreign countries. Last year the exports of butter actually shrank to just over half a million pounds, or barely more than one-twentieth of the amount sent out in the twelve months previous. The decrease in the quantity of cheese exports was about twenty-eight millions of pounds, while condensed milk, cream and casin suffered proportionately.

To return to the importation of butter, it is scarcely needful to add that its volume during the past year has attracted a great deal of attention, and gives rise to much comment. It is certainly rather surprising that a great dairying country like Canada should find it necessary to go to the opposite end of the earth for so large a portion of its supply of butter. During the twelve months ended last November 30 the total import was seven millions of pounds. The bulk of this butter consists of direct shipment from New Zealand to Vancouver and Victoria to supply the Pacific coast trade. New Zealand butter is finding so much favor with consumers on the coast that they are paying a premium of one and two cents per pound above the price at which butter from Eastern Canada can be obtained.

The latter end of the report, which is of a very exhaustive nature, is much more hopeful, and in fact finds a solution for the decline of exportation of dairy products. The compiler states that in spite of the figures above quoted, dairying is not on the decline in Canada. He makes the assertion that there has been as much increase in milk production, taking Canada as a whole, during the last decade as there has been in any similar period in the history of the industry. The superficial estimate of the situation is often wrong, because we fail to realize the quantity it takes to provide an increased population of say two and a half millions with milk and milk products, nor do we take into account new demands which have recently arisen. In one way and another, says the report, Canadians are consuming between thirty and forty million dollars worth a year more of dairy products than they did ten years ago.

A LITTLE KNOWN REPUBLIC.

Saturday's cable telling of the death of President Auguste, of Hayti, brings into the limelight for a brief space a republic in which little general interest is taken by the rest of the world, and about which the great majority of people have heard little. This island country set in the blue Caribbean seems to be less of a part of the civilised world than any civilised country in it, while its French speaking people have not yet learned, it appears, the sweets of the uses of advertisement.

Hayti, or Haiti as it is generally named, is the second largest of the West Indies group, and has almost twice the area of Vancouver Island. It is justly renowned for its many excellent harbors which occur at frequent intervals along a well indented coast. The one great drawback to living in Haiti, according to travellers, is the frequency of the earthquakes which are often of a disastrous nature. Apart from this the climate is healthful, especially in the hilly districts, though the protracted rainy season makes a good part of the year uncomfortable for travellers. The republic itself only occupies one-third of the island, which all, however, has the same designation. Thus the part over which the late President Auguste ruled is an area of about 10,000 square miles at the western end of the island. By far the most important product is coffee, which is produced in large quantities. Then come logwood, cocoa and cotton.

The trade of Haiti is not very extensive. Most of the exports are to France, Germany, Great Britain and the States. The history of the island is a very chequered and romantic one. It was first taken possession of by British and French buccaniers in the 17th century, while the French also established a colony there in 1640. Napoleon's attempt in 1802 to re-enslave the blacks who had been freed in 1794 resulted in a series of massacres ending in the erection of a negro republic in 1804. Forty years later the eastern negroes separated from Haiti, and formed the republic of Santo Domingo.

A word as to the administration. The executive power of Haiti is in the hands of a president, who is generally chosen by the National Assembly, and holds office for seven years. The Assembly is bi-cameral, and has a Chamber of Communes, chosen directly by the people for three years and a Senate of thirty-nine members picked from lists submitted by the President and the electors. Roman Catholicism is the established religion of the republic, but religious freedom is guaranteed by the constitution. French is spoken everywhere. The population of Haiti is about one and a half million souls who are almost all entirely of African descent.

NANAIMO SITUATION.

On Saturday 478 miners employed at Nanaimo and vicinity who do not belong to the United Mine Workers voted as to whether they would go on strike or return to work. Four hundred and twenty-two decided in favor of resuming work, but in view of the small proportion of ballots cast they decided to remain inactive and await developments. The miners connected with the international organisation took no part in the proceedings in pursuance of instructions from the officials of the union.

The strike order was issued by the representative of the United Mine Workers at Seattle without having been determined by the majority of the miners themselves. Even had those men in the district who belong to the organisation decided formally to stop work they are said to be considerably in the minority, and could scarcely carry with them the bulk of the miners who are not members of the union. Something more than a sudden order from a Seattle official of the United Mine Workers to men who represent but a small proportion of the miners employed should be required before a general strike can be declared.

We are not discussing the issues underlying the situation. We do not believe that any workmen are more entitled to special treatment than those who mine coal. There is a hazardous occupation under the most favorable circumstances, but if they are dissatisfied with the conditions under which they work it should be for them to determine what course they will pursue. Unless the majority of them decide that a strike is necessary in this instance the order from the international union officials is an unwarranted intrusion.

The first joke writer, says an American daily, is said to have lived about 400 B. C. And some of his jokes are still in common use.

Three women are among the candidates for election in the federal parliament campaign now drawing to a close in Australia. One of them polled well at the last election when she created a record as being the first woman to enter the political ring in Australia.

Mr. Balfour says that the competitive examination is a soul-killing institution. His opponents, of course, will interpret this remark in the light of recent political events in which his party in competition has been rather badly mauled.

The discussion raised by W. M. Martin, member for Regina in the House of Commons, regarding western freight was timely. It reminds us that the railway commission has been deliberating on this question for more than a year. It heard a vast amount of evidence from the Great Lakes to the Pacific, and much argument from counsel. Why is the announcement of its decision being withheld? Several million people are anxiously waiting for the verdict.

This is the month on which their Majesties the King and Queen are billed to appear at Berlin for the Royal wedding. Increased significance is given to the visit by the news that Sir Edward Grey will accompany them. It is also said that the Queen intends to be present at the ceremony, and the presence of the three most powerful crowned heads in the world at such a crucial stage of Europe's history will assuredly result in a conference of tremendous importance.

It is reported from Ottawa that Mr. Borden is to lose three of his ministers shortly. Hon. Mr. Nantel, Minister of Inland Revenue, will be made a judge. Hon. Frank Cochrane is slated for the Lieutenant-Governorship of Ontario, and Dr. Roche's retirement is said to be necessitated by ill-health. The first named is a Nationalist elected on the no-navy, no-contribution platform. Having avowed that plank he is suffering from a seizure of political indigestion which a judgeship might cure. Dr. P. E. Boudin, the Deputy Speaker, is mentioned as Mr. Nantel's possible successor. His chief claim to the ministerial shoes of a Nationalist apparently is his speech in the fall of 1910 when he said: "Frenchmen had to shoot holes in the Union Jack to breathe the air of liberty."

It is not often that Lord Charles Beresford indulges in praise of anyone. Indeed it is usually the other way about. Hence his eulogy of Sir Edward Grey is all the more striking. He said of him recently: "All great actions made in history, have been brought about by one man. Even the geography of the world has been altered by the action of an individual. Look at the present state of Europe. We owe the peace of Europe to the personality and individuality of one man, and that man we are proud to say is a Britisher—I refer to Sir Edward Grey. A wrong sentence, a wrong expression, a very little want of tact might have brought about war. I think that when the history of the last few months is written you will find that we owe the peace of Europe to the individuality of one man."

50% BELOW REGULAR PRICES

THE best linen manufacturers in Ireland never knowingly send out imperfect goods. Experts are engaged to examine very closely every article that is made, and should there be the slightest defect discovered then that particular article is put on one side, and is afterwards known as seconds—that is, goods that cannot be sold honestly as perfect. These goods are kept until the stock is sufficiently large to job out.

We have been fortunate in securing one of these stocks, and the entire lot is being cleared at one-half their regular values, as follows:

Overland
Delivery Cars in Modern Business

The increasing number of Motor Trucks on our streets and the serious attention now being given to their building by hundreds of automobile makers all point to the fact that the Motor Truck has come to stay. Hard-headed business men everywhere are adopting Overland delivery and transportation only after proof that it pays. Any merchant can save enough on his upkeep bill in one year to pay the larger half of the original cost, while the increased service afforded by an Overland means more business and more satisfaction all round. The owner of an Overland can deliver more goods in less time, with less expense, than the man depending on horse power. Then, again, the advertising value of an Overland is a point worth consideration. Let us prove that an Overland would mean more business for you.

Two Pleaded Guilty and Testified Against Third Who Said He Was in Bed

Three of the four boys who entered R. W. Fox's cigar store and pool room in Oak Bay avenue on the night of April 2 appeared in the police court this morning facing charges of theft, but the fourth boy, Cecil L. L., cannot be found. James Campbell pleaded not guilty to the charge, but Frank Green and Donald MacRay pleaded guilty and testified that Campbell was present and took some of the cigarettes. Just how the proposition to enter the place arose was not clear in the boys' minds, but it eventually came out that Green had helped MacRay over the transom, which was open several inches, and that he had opened the door from the inside and let the others in. Campbell maintained that he was home and in bed before the time stated in the evidence as that at which the theft took place. Campbell was remanded till to-morrow to bring evidence as to this, and the other two were remanded also so they could all be sentenced together.

DEAD WHEN FOUND
HANGING IN BARN

Aged John Roscamp Had Bored a Hole in One of Rafters

John Roscamp, of 403 Kingston street, was found hanging from the rafters of the barn at the rear of his premises about 7:15 Sunday morning. Roscamp was a man of about 60 years of age in comfortable circumstances and with a wife and large family. No reason is known why he should commit suicide unless he was temporarily deranged. He had bored a hole in one of the rafters and pulled a rope through it and tied it about his neck. When found by a member of his family his toes were touching the ground. He had evidently been hanging there for some hours. There will be an inquest to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

SUCCESS OF SHOW
MEANS NEW BUILDING

Will Be Room for 3,500 Horse Fanciers—Cost Will Be $20,000

A new horse show building is assured for next spring. Secretary Sangster stated to the Times on Saturday night that while the association will not be able to have the building ready for the spring show, the new structure will be completed for the 1914 show. The building which is under consideration will have accommodation for about 3,500 spectators and will have double the stabling facilities of the present building. The proposed building will cost about $20,000 and will be a credit to the association. Nothing definite has been decided upon, but the above are figures that were given out by Secretary Sangster. Next year's show will probably be extended to four or five days, while special features may be added to the programme. The attendance, in spite of the very cold weather, was large on Saturday night, the house being packed. It is expected that the show will be a success financially. The management has been warned by all the exhibitors that it will be necessary to have a larger building before another spring horse show comes along, and no efforts will be spared to provide them. With all the comforts of the motor car fanciers declare the horse for pleasure is going to remain supreme, and that it is only by competition that the lover of horses will know when he has got a good one.

PROGRAMME IS LIGHT

City Council Will Handle Routine Business at Meeting This Evening.

Routine business will engage the city council this evening. A decision has to be reached with regard to the transfer of the Civic Labor Bureau from the mayor's secretary to the timekeeper at the Yates Street yard. This will be the recommendation of the special committee which has the subject under consideration. The present system has not been satisfactory in many regards and has been criticized in all quarters.

The council will receive a deputation from the Labor Temple Company, Ltd., with regard to expropriation for a lane at the rear of the property, and will also meet F. Stuart White, the entertainment organizer, with regard to amusements in the city parks.

The only by-law posted is that to amend the boulevard tax rate in order to raise the maintenance charge slightly.

ENTRIES COMING.

Carnival Athletic Meet Assumes International Aspect.

Many entries are being received for the international field meet which the Summer Carnival committee is arranging. California is sending 7 competitors, University of Oregon 4, Spokane A. C. 3; Calgary, 3; University of Washington, 6; Tacoma, 2, and Vancouver A. C., 6. The following prospective programme has been drawn up: 100 yards dash, 220 yards dash, quarter-mile, half-mile, one mile, 5 miles; high jump, running high jump, hurdles, broad jump, running broad jump, pole vault, shot put 12-lb., hammer throw 16-lb., discus throw, relay race (one mile), tug of war (international), 220 yards obstacle race, marathon race (15 miles), and paper chase from Beacon Hill park to Mount Folmie and back.

"After a thorough test of the BRINSMEAD PIANOS I found that their touch is perfect, the singing quality almost human, and the action unsurpassed."

The term "BRINSMEAD" practically means "PIANO" in Great Britain.

It stands for all that years of experience, cunning workmanship and adherence to high standards mean in piano-building.

We are showing these world-famous instruments in both GRAND and UPRIGHT styles. Come in and hear them this week.

GOT WHALER TO ACT AS AN ICE-BREAKER

Was Only Way Capt. Watt Could Pilot His Ship Out of Harbor of Sydney

Capt. Watt, the jovial master of the big British tramp steamer Strathgairn, which called off here on Saturday to pick up Capt. Whiteley, who piloted her up the Gulf to the Fraser river, is one of the most interesting mariners who have visited this port of the world. Although only a young man, Capt. Watt has already distinguished himself as a seaman and on several occasions been granted a bonus by the underwriters for his skill shown in piloting disabled ships safely into port. Capt. Watt had the distinction of being one of the last men to shake hands and say good-bye to the late Capt. Scott, the Antarctic explorer, when he departed from Christchurch, N. Z., on his fateful expedition. The master of the Strathgairn was intimately acquainted with all the officers of the Terra Nova.

Capt. Watt in telling of his trip around from Cape Breton with his cargo, said that he had a most exciting time getting away from Sydney. When he was ready to sail on February 18 the temperature was 10 degrees below zero and there was a great deal of ice in the harbor. In order that he might not be delayed Capt. Watt secured one of the Newfoundland whalers to act as an ice-breaker and prepare a channel by which he might take his ship out. If the Strathgairn had not left Sydney that day it might have been a full month before she could have left, owing to a severe snap of cold weather which set in and froze the harbor.

Made 700 Miles in 11 Days. While on her way from England to Sydney in ballast to load, the Strathgairn was caught in one of the fiercest January hurricanes which make the Atlantic ocean a place to be abhorred. The waters of the Atlantic were whipped into turbulent rage by the terrific gales of wind. Against the great seas the freight steamer and her decks were almost continually under water. After working against these almost overwhelming odds for eleven days Capt. Watt found that his command had made only 700 miles, which distance under good weather conditions she could easily make in two days and a half. The engineers on examining the bunkers found that there was not sufficient coal left to reach Sydney, so Capt. Watt started on a return voyage. He was taken to a fresh supply of coal was taken on. The trip to Cape Breton was later completed without anything out of the ordinary occurring.

One Lost Ship's Rudder. For the great skill and ingenuity displayed by Capt. Watt when his ship was disabled in the South Pacific about two years ago in piloting her some 1,200 miles to a port, he was granted a bonus of £65 by the underwriters. In a storm the rudder snapped and the steamship was left helpless. By means of a derrick and several other devices Capt. Watt navigated his ship through the storm without any further mishap and put into Christchurch.

While waiting at Christchurch discharging cargo Capt. Watt boarded the exploring ship Terra Nova to renew his acquaintance with the officers of the vessel. He was one of the last men to shake the hand of Capt. Scott and wish him good luck in his adventure.

FLOATS OFF MUD BANK

S.S. TEES.

TWO STEAMERS PULL TEES OFF MUD BANK

Staunch Vessel Floated at Midnight Last Night; Salvor and Leebro Did the Pulling.

With the steamers Salvor and Leebro tugging away at the ends of heavy hawsers and her own engines working at full speed astern, the C. P. R. west coast steamer Tees, Capt. Gilliam, was floated at midnight last night and proceeded on her trip to Clayoquot and west ports. An examination of the Tees' hull showed that she suffered no damage to her hull from the mud bank last Friday night, and will not have to be withdrawn from the route for repairs.

The Times received a telegram this morning from Capt. W. H. Logan, special representative of the London Salvage Company, who superintended the salvage operations. Immediately after the Tees was released from the sticky mud bottom one of the Salvor's divers went down to see if any of the frames were dented or broken. On coming to the surface he reported that the ship's hull was tight and that the big iron plates had suffered very little strain.

In Continuing on Run. When the report was made that the Tees was in no way damaged Capt. Gilliam decided to continue on his run here on Wednesday and ready to take her on Wednesday and ready to take her on Wednesday, sailing out of here that night, and thereby lose no time as a result of the accident.

The steamer Salvor, Capt. Stratford, which was dispatched from Victoria Saturday morning to float the Tees, is now on her way back to port, and the steamer Leebro, Capt. Hunter, which happened along at an opportune time, is proceeding north to Triangle Island.

SITHONIA ARRIVES IN A NEW SERVICE

Hamburg-American Steamer Inaugurates Line From Europe Through Suez

First of the Hamburg-American liners to come to this coast in the new service from European ports via the Suez canal, the steamship Sithonia, Capt. Kotzke, passed up to Vancouver early this morning. The vessel did not berth at the outer docks as was expected owing to the fact that she had only 50 tons of freight consigned to this port. One of the Terminal City pilots boarded the Sithonia off the docks, and she continued on her way up the Gulf.

When the Hamburg-American company announced that it would dispatch its big ships to this coast via the Suez canal and the Orient, Victoria was included among the ports of call of the vessels. It is understood that the 50 tons of cargo consigned to Victoria will be transhipped here. After the run has become more widely known there is little doubt but that the cargoes coming to this port will be materially increased, and as a result warrant a call being made here.

The Sithonia looked trim when she lay out in the stream waiting for the pilot to come off.

Volumina in With Sulphur.

Early this morning the fine British tramp steamer Volumina, Captain Henry Plough, was piloted up to the Victoria Chemical Company's dock, where she is now discharging 500 tons of sulphur. The Volumina came here from Powell river, at which place she put off 1,000 tons of the Japanese product. It is expected that the Volumina will be ready to leave here to-morrow. She will proceed to the Sound, where she is to load a full cargo of general merchandise. This freight was formerly in the holds of the steamship Robert Dollar, which met with an accident off the Columbia river and is now repairing at Seattle.

Capt. Plough says that he had a fine run across the Pacific. The weather was breezy at times, but his vessel succeeded in making the run in sixteen and a half days, a very creditable performance for a ship of her class.

GEORGE COMPLETES HUNDREDTH VOYAGE

Prince Steamer Has Splendid Weather on Century Run; Has Had Four Masters

When the G. T. P. steamer Prince George was piloted into port yesterday morning by Capt. Donald, she completed her one hundredth trip to Prince Rupert. The century trip of the big three-stacker was one of the finest she has ever experienced, and Capt. Donald says that the weather was somewhat similar to that which is prevailing here to-day. The one hundredth trip of the George was marked with no less a distinguished personage than Rear-Admiral Kingsmill, commander-in-chief of the Canadian navy.

The Prince George has been operating for the past two years in the Prince Rupert trade, in conjunction with her sister ship, the Prince Rupert. The Prince George has been attended with good fortune throughout the time, and not once has she met with any serious accident. The George is the ship from which the Dominion government has drawn several of its marine officials. Capt. Geo. Robertson, now agent of the marine department, took command of the vessel upon her arrival here, and was her master until he received the stumps by the board and only the stumps were left. The wily Chinks came alongside us and felted that they had been battered by the bad weather and wanted to be taken aboard. Yes, and the old man took them on and they gave us more trouble than enough, but they did not get away with anything. This is what one old seadog produced. This down at the ship chandler's stove.

Three Make All Trips. There are three men aboard the Prince George, who have been with her since she started service. They are Chief Engineer Handy, Purser Eddie Cridge and Chief Steward Newey. They have not missed one trip on the crack flyer.

The Prince George brought south a fair list of passengers on her century trip. Rear-Admiral Kingsmill and Lieut. Gleghair went through to Stewart Island to look over the conditions there. A large number of other passengers came south on the George. When the George sailed from Victoria this morning on her regular trip to the Portland Canal she took with her a number of passengers. Among those who embarked were the following: C. L. Cullen, G. M. Williscroft, E. E. Chauvin, Duncan Ross and H. E. Newton.

FAST NEW WHITE LINER AT SINGAPORE SATURDAY

The Times representative on board the new C. P. R. steamer Empress of Russia, Capt. Beetham, which is on a round-the-world trip, writes the following from Singapore: "The Empress of Russia with her 100 Canadians passed the famous Fort Canning and dropped anchor on Saturday morning. Here is the gateway to the East with a population gathered from the nations of the world. Hundreds of scantily attired jinkishas men lined the quay looking for our money. A number of the party desire to visit Johore, and others are planning excursions in other directions.

Haley street, immortalized by Rudyard Kipling, is the scene of numerous parties of Canadians buying eastern novelties of shell coral, sandalwood, lacquer, China, silks, Manila tobacco, Eaglewood and Eastern jewelry. The Mongolian, European and Oriental all bid for trade. Many jinkishas have been engaged to convey the passengers to the various points of interest in the city, including the Oriental bazaar with their curio novelties and the Mohammedan mosques and the conglomeration of native shops.

"We are almost on the equator, and its very warm here. The British Empire has a new meaning to us as we visit the many British ports, and will return to Canada, to which we know of the Empire to which we belong. Our handsome ship is much admired, and the Canadian Pacific never gave a more satisfactory service."

AN ICEBERG IN THE PACIFIC.

Portland, Ore., May 5.—While en route to Portland from Karatsu, Japan, Capt. John Salter, master of the Japanese steamship Manchu Maru, now in the harbor, sighted an iceberg April 21 at 2 a. m. in latitude 45.24 north and longitude 152.09 east. The steamer passed within 50 feet of the berg, which was 200 feet long, 40 feet wide and showing two feet above the surface of the sea.

Capt. Haruhara, master of the British steamship Hargrave, also in port, reported that he sighted a wreck April 21 at 10 a. m. in latitude 33.10 north and longitude 120.05 west. It had the appearance of the lower mast-head and the topmast of a schooner.

The rainiest day on record anywhere in England was August 6, 1887, when the rain gauge at Scarborough, holding 9 1/2 inches, was filled to overflowing.

AROUND THE SHIP CHANDLER'S STOVE

CHINESE PIRATES TRIED TO PERPETUATE TRICK BUT FAILED.

"I remember about 14 years ago, when I was sailing in the full-rigged ship Celestial Murrell, of Yarmouth, N. S., we were dismayed off the Formosa Islands and a bunch of those slippery old Chinese pirates tried to pull their game with us, but we got them in time. We'd fallen in with a typhoon and all three masts had gone by the board and only the stumps were left. The wily Chinks came alongside us and felted that they had been battered by the bad weather and wanted to be taken aboard. Yes, and the old man took them on and they gave us more trouble than enough, but they did not get away with anything. This is what one old seadog produced. This down at the ship chandler's stove.

"If I had been on watch all by myself and can imagine the surprise of the skipper when he came on deck and found nothing left but the stumps of the masts. "Well, what have you been doing here, Mr. Gigg? Have you been hanging on till the wind took the masts out of her? Didn't I tell you to call me when the wind got up? The questions were fired out by the captain, who was greatly enraged. "That's all right, captain, but yet see she hit us so suddenly that I thought it was no use calling you. Besides, I'm nearly as good a man as you, so the misuses says. This was the only answer I had to give the skipper. "Look here, young man," stormed the captain, "your misuses is not running this ship, and if you're not mighty careful I'll have you put in irons. Now look lively and see about setting some jury rigging up."

"I care and I just went off singing. The old man's tight and I'm all right. Yo Ho, Ahoy! Yo Ho, Ahoy!" The old man decided to run to Hongkong for repairs. Well, sir, the next day we fell in with a Chinese junk. I saw them coming through my glass and they had sail up all right. I then saw them drop their sail and stow away their mast. The skipper wasn't up a white flag. Our packet wasn't moving very fast but we soon overhauled the junk. The Chinese said their ship was sinking and asked to be taken aboard. The old man was

"The skipper then sung out, 'Run alongside velly quick. No looses no time. Jump quick, Charlie.' You should have seen the old pirates hop. They leaped about six feet on to our ship. The skipper figured on working all the junkmen and giving his crew a rest, so he didn't give the would-be pirates a chance to get at their frame as soon as they'd have liked to. One night, however, they tried to work their little game, but they found the white man too smart. I was asleep and was awakened by a noise in the captain's cabin. When I was well awake I could hear the Chinese jabbering away. I scented trouble and as soon as my trusty old friend, Mr. Revolver with me, I stepped outside and about three pirates jumped for me. I was as quick as a cat though, and shot twice. One bullet went through two of them, and thereby saved me a leaded messenger of death. I went forward and called all hands. With their capstan bars they came aft. They beat them on the hands and in short gave them a mighty lively time. "When we reached the captain's room we found that the captain had been peeping away with his revolver until it had given out. He'd put holes through five Chinamen. If I hadn't arrived with my army at that time the remainder of the junkmen might have fixed the skipper. "The old man then rewarded me by giving the rest of the crew, by saying that I was the best man aboard the ship. He forgot about our little scrap. We reached Hongkong all right and the ship was condemned. The junkmen were handed over to the police."

RIVAL BODIES

HAVE AGREED

Swimming Association Will Control All Meets in British Columbia; Officers Elected

There will be no friction between the B. B. A. A. and the C. B. A. A. At Saturday night's annual meeting of the swimming body, it was announced that the James Bay and club had decided to recognize the association in all matters pertaining to swimming. A sanction was given by the association to P. H. Pomfret to the carnival swimming meet, and the committee decided that in future ladies' championships will be decided over a quarter mile course instead of the 100 yard event that is now staged. An effort will be made to ascertain the name of the donor of many trophies and medals, but to which no name has been attached, in order that the proper credit may be given this enthusiast.

Officers Elected.
The annual report showed the association to be in a sound financial condition, also that swimming was rapidly becoming a popular pastime of the coast.

W. Long was elected president, the remainder of the selection being secretary-treasurer, A. Cotter, Vancouver, H. B. Bogg, the James Bay Athletic Association representative, was appointed auditor for the ensuing term. Sir Richard McBride was elected honorary president.

The following delegates were present: R. Ely and C. Hopper, Victoria, Y. M. C. A.; H. B. Bogg, J. B. A. A.; P. H. Pomfret, Royal Life-saving Society; R. B. Rowsell and Jack McNell, Victoria Amateur Swimming Association.

The next executive meeting will take place on May 17 at Vancouver.

MAJOR LEAGUER

SIGNS WITH BEES

Ben Hunt Will Strengthen Local
Twirling Staff; Amateurs
Meet To-night

While the Bees are still on the trail of another hard-hitting outfielder, President Wastelot announced this morning that he had closed with Ben Hunt, of the St. Louis Nationals, a southpaw who was one of the best twirlers in the Northwest League last year as a member of the Tacoma club. He joined the club at Seattle yesterday and will twirl against his former team mates today or to-morrow. Hunt has been with the St. Louis, National League club, up till April 27, when he was shipped west again. He becomes the property of the Victoria club and will greatly help the Bees to a first division berth. Coupled with Kanteleiner he rounds out the finest port-sided brigade in the league.

A smoker will be held at the J. B. A. A. to-night at which the Victoria Amateur Baseball Association will hold its annual meeting. A nice entertainment is on the cards and all teams wishing to enter are requested to get into communication with Secretary Spence at once.

Manager Plummer, of the Moose club, states that the Nanaimo club will open the season at Victoria on May 17. The schedule has been drawn up and will be released shortly.

NEW RECORD.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., May 7.—Miss Elizabeth A. Hardon of Elizabeth, N. J., Saturday broke the world's record for women in the shot-put at the Vassar College field day with a put of thirty-two feet 4 inches. The previous record was made by Miss Inez Mulholland, the suffragist leader, in 1909.

AFTER TITLE.

Montreal, May 5.—Frank C. Fleming, the game little Montreal boxer, has come home to nurse his broken hand and to rest up for his bout with the winner of the next Kilbane-Dundee bout, which will take place in a few weeks. He has the promise that the winner will meet him.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Kanteleiner's Pitching Beat Vancouver.

When the youthful port-sider holds that heavy-slugging Vancouver club to five scattered hits it may be depended on that Kanteleiner was twirling grand ball at Seattle yesterday. The Beavers did not have a chance to score and only an error allowed a man as far as third. The Kaiser was particularly effective in the pinches and breeched First Baseman Walsh three times just to show that he was there. Kanteleiner had been troubled with a sore arm for a week, while Alberts is also slated for duty against Tacoma. With another out-fielder due the Bees will shape up a great deal stronger this week and should win the series from the Tigers by a couple of games.

Seattle is Pressing Vancouver Close.

Though Bob Brown's Club have a healthy lead over the rest of the field, the Tillikums are closing the gap that separates last year's champions from the Beavers. Seattle has been bumping Spokane rather regularly of late and Joe Cohn's tribe will have to inject a little "pep" into their playing to stay with the rest of the crowd. Powell's injury will be a serious handicap to the Indians and Cohn is no doubt kicking himself because he parted with Melchior, whom he sold to the Bees. Iron Man McGinnity and his ex-Bees have been doing very well with Portland and the Tigers are anxious to beat Victoria above all other clubs in the league. There are no less than eight former Victorians in the line-up of McGinnity's cluster of diamond artists and the fans are sure to turn out in big numbers to greet their former favorites. The series this week between Victoria and Tacoma ought to boost the Bees considerably before they hit the road for their second tour of the season.

Hyland Eliminated From Lightweight Tourney.

Even though Fighting Dick Hyland did get a draw with Joe Bayley at Calgary last fall, the defeat of the Calgary boxer by Ray Campbell Saturday prevents Richard from getting a return match with Champion Bayley. Morris Condon announces that he cannot attend to the many challenges, and if Bayley is successful in defeating Ernie Barrieau on the holiday, a bout between Bayley and Campbell would draw like a house afire. Campbell is no slouch as a fighter because he clearly gained a decision over Frank Barrieau in their recent fight at the Terminal City, while his victory over Hyland at Steveston, on Saturday, shows that he possesses considerable class. Victoria will get a chance to witness some real live pro's in action here next week when the Victoria Athletic Club get their club smokers started. The card will be announced in a day or two.

Credentia's Record Will Stand for Another Year.

When Sioux failed to clear six feet nine inches at the horse show on Saturday night and allowed Rob Roy, an outsider, to come through and carry off premier leaping honors at the Victoria Horse Show, the enthusiasts were forced to forego the pleasure of witnessing the Calgary horse establish a new record. The nasty tumbles that jarred the riders, nerved the crowd for what was to come, but the fact that no one of the entries could clear the lower heights without touching, meant that the record would not be broken. The splendid attendance during the three days of the show justifies Secretary Sangster's remarks concerning a larger building, for the spring show is becoming such an event, that the present building is inadequate to handle the crowd, that patronize the show.

BEAT HYLAND.

Ray Campbell Boosts His Reputation at Steveston.

Vancouver, B. C., May 5.—Ray Campbell, formerly of San Francisco, came to the front in leaps and bounds at Steveston, when he cleverly and clearly outpointed the famous "Fighting Dick" Hyland, a former world's title aspirant in the lightweight ranks, in a fifteen-round bout.

When Referee Bishop, sporting editor of the Tacoma News, raised Campbell's glove aloft, there was a wild cheer from the fans.

SUGGESTS DATES.

Cambridge, Mass., May 5.—William F. Garcelon, treasurer of the Harvard Athletic Association, announced that the Harvard-Yale track management had suggested June 19 as the date for the Harvard-Yale and the Oxford-Cambridge intercollegiate track meet to be held in the Stadium.

BEES SHOW IMPROVEMENT AND BEAT VANCOUVER AT SEATTLE

Wilson Holds Beavers to a Tie on Saturday, While Kantelehn Shuts Terminals Out on Sunday; Tacoma Here This Week

Vancouver failed to win on Saturday and while the Bees did not chalk up a win, they did the next best thing, and tied up the game in the eighth, Umpire Casey calling time with the score three all. There were more frills crammed into that game on Saturday than there has been all week. It was a cold, raw, windy day to play baseball, and for once the goddess of fortune smiled upon the locals.

Vancouver had shoved a brace of runs across in the ninth, but Victoria started out like champs, and with Ingersoll and Schmutz taking up the burdens for the Terminals, the Bees had three men on, with two down when Rawlings came to bat. The shortstop had two balls batted upon him in the ninth, when Casey stepped out and announced that the game had been called to allow the teams to catch their boat. Bob Brown was a bit peeved, as he thought he would be able to score his fifth win.

Charlie Brooks' homer with Rawlings and Wilson on the base paths settled Saturday's game though Heister and Bennett also clouted the ball over the fence. McCreey struck out six, the entire side, in the fifth, while Wilson whiffed four. The team was going a lot better, and but for a poor stop by Rawlings of a ball thrown by Wilson, the Bees would have shown another clean sweep in the fielding column.

Sunday's Victory.

Seattle, May 5.—Vancouver and Victoria came to Seattle to play their Sunday game to-day and put up an excellent exhibition of baseball which was won by Victoria 2 to 0. The only scores came in the fourth inning when Brooks singled and Lynch followed with a home run. Both teams played errorless ball.

TACOMA UNABLE TO HIT MARTINON: TIGERS BLANKED

Tacoma, May 5.—Martinoni was in great form yesterday and held the locals safe at all stages. Concannon was relieved by Kurfess in the second after doubles by Williams and Murray and a single by Guigni had netted two runs. Kurfess was steady, the only run made against him being due to Grindell's error.

LIPTON WAITING.

Surprised at Delay of New York Yacht Club.

London, May 5.—Sir Thomas Lipton, who has been anxiously awaiting the reply of the New York Yacht Club to his challenge for the America's Cup, is somewhat surprised that its consideration by the committee of the American Club has been put off for two weeks. On the last occasion the committee gathered on the same day as the club meeting was held and the reply was sent that night.

Strictly for Farmers.

As the institution was founded and developed to its present state for the express purpose of benefiting the farmer, every inducement has been put forward to encourage him to come, and although as in Seattle and similar places tradesmen and grocers have offered inducements to be allowed to rent space within the market area for the purpose of carrying on their business there, the market authorities have stoutly refused to countenance any such proposal, contending that, although the market may at certain seasons of the year be larger than is required for the accommodation of the vendors, yet it was intended for them and must be retained for them in the event of their some day requiring it.

The charges made to the vendor are in every case as reasonable as it is possible to make them, and are based on the cost of maintenance, and the quantity and variety of produce handled by the respective salesmen. The minimum charge of ten cents provides a net space large enough for the small producer to dispose of his or her poultry, butter, eggs, or other small dairy or garden produce, while the rising scale of charges culminates in a fee which, commensurate to the area provided, gives ample room for conducting a fair-sized green-grocery business.

The object of the market organizers, in touch with the consumer with as little expense as possible, is thus accomplished. Some producers find the system so profitable to them that, in the case of the more distant farmers, they do not come to the market themselves at all, shipping all their produce to the market clerk, who hands it over to one of the three men employed during the busy season for the purpose. A small commission covers the expense of the undertaking to the market, and the remainder of the proceeds is delivered to the shipper.

The farmer stands in the double position of retailer and wholesaler; each person being entitled to sell in the dual capacity if he chooses. It is through the market list published every Friday and Saturday morning that the farmer learns the market conditions, although the quotations given there are in no sense binding, and are given only for the protection of the farmer. The consumer may, as in the case of purchase from the city stores, have their purchases delivered if they wish, the market authorities having an arrangement with one of the express companies by which this is made possible.

It is not only to the extent of hen-coop and express wagons, however, that the market has considered the convenience of the men who it started out to benefit. In order to assist the amount and expediency of his sales, the market keeps a large store of fruit boxes on hand, which, together with paper bags and berry boxes, etc., are supplied to the farmer absolutely at cost.

Horse Market.
If the comfort of the men and women is considered, no less is the comfort of their horses prepared for, and the market stables, which are just across the street from the building, and open into the big market square, provide free accommodation for no less than 300 horses. This may seem an almost incredible number of animals in view of the facts, but on several occasions this number has been exceeded to such an extent that the wagon-shed has had to be cleared in order to give housing to the additional equines when storms have come up suddenly.

The stock auction market is old-world in atmosphere, and provides the casual spectator with some of the most picturesque features of the whole institution, three auctioneers, acting entirely independently of the market, however, being present on every market day to act as intermediary between the horse-owner, cattle rancher, etc., and the purchaser. An amusing spectacle which always excites more or less mirth among the spectators is that of four, five, or sometimes six horses leaving the square in an im-provided procession consisting of tying number one's tail to a rope, and the rope to the next gee's neck, whose tail in turn is similarly connected with the following animal. A few incidental bitches do not seem to perturb the outsider on the first horse in the least, and the sign-chain winds its way with harassed expressions out of the square to some destination in which no one seems particularly interested.

At the Auction.

The crowd of hangers-on is usually sufficient to attract an occasional genuine bona-fide buyer to the square, which is overlooked from a height by the city's main thoroughfare, and Mr. Auctioneer becomes more eloquent and more confident as his audience increases. The appearance occasionally of a dashing cowboy rider who elaters into the centre of the ring in his most showy manner, gives revived interest often in the midst of a lull in the proceedings, and the crowd drifts slowly back to watch the luck of the bidders, and add their quota of bucolic wit and scathing comment on the virtues or otherwise of the animal for sale.

Cows and pigs and sheep are dealt with in the same way, while the market authorities once more fulfil their purpose of benefiting the farmer by providing a free square where he may put up his live-stock for auction.

No Oriental.

In connection with the Seattle market it has been noticed that a large majority of the farmer-producers were Japanese and Italians. In New Westminster, although no embargo has been placed on these, there is no representation of either nationality within the market for some inexplicable reason. The reduction of prices consequent on the establishment of the market needs no explanation. The meat market, which has been rising with alarming rapidity in the hands of the regular butchers of late, shows some conspicuous advantages over the latter. The very best cut of beef, for example, can be obtained for from 20 to 22 cents per lb. Mutton may be obtained at from 10 to 22 cents, while the best home-cured hams are purchasable at 20 cents. Red spring salmon is five cents per lb. cheaper than in Victoria, while halibut is but 12½ cents, and cod 10 cents, as against Victoria's 25 and 12½ cents.

To the producer the market is an incalculable advantage, in that he simply requires to bring his produce to town, and wait at a certain point for his customer to come to him. Under present conditions of direct business between producer and consumer, the former has to search out the latter individually in the majority of cases, at not a little inconvenience to himself.

Wholesale Prices Better.

Some notable improvements in wholesale prices noted in the New Westminster market include apples at $1 and $1.25; best at 75 cents, turnips at 60 cents and carrots at 60 cents. Provided the wholesale and retail merchants of New Westminster are content with profits even proportionate to our own merchants, this would leave the consumer considerably less out of pocket than he is here, and a convincing proof of the appreciation felt by the consuming public of the Royal City and adjoining municipalities lies in the popularity of the institution among all classes.

Victoria may not be so singularly well-placed with respect to transportation; she may not have within easy reach so large a community of farmer-producers. But it surely would redound to the advantage of the existing farmer, and perhaps delay the extinction of a class of settlers that until the days of real estate speculators populated the surrounding districts in no small numbers, if Victoria would establish a public market along the same lines as Seattle, New Westminster and the towns of eastern Canada. In a campaign toward this end the consumer should be also among the leading agitators.

CLASSY BILL AT VICTORIA SMOKER

Pro. Boxing Stars Will Entertain Local Club Members on May 15

A splendid bill is carded for the opening smoker of the Victoria Athletic Club, which will be held at the club rooms, Broad street, on May 15. It was the intention of the club directors to hold the show on May 8, but Physical Director Raymond was unable to secure the men he wanted for that date and he refused to stage a show that would not bring the finest boxers on the coast before his club. Members only will be admitted, and the following card will be given:

135 lbs.—Red Robinson, Victoria, vs. Eddie Shannon, Seattle.
155 lbs.—Billie Weekes, Vancouver, vs. Joe Swain, Portland.
145 lbs.—Bobby Evans, Victoria, vs. Denver Ed. Clarke, Denver.

120 lbs.—Charlie Southall, Victoria, vs. Freddie Lee, Vancouver.
Raymond will have his squad working out at 7.30 each evening at the V. A. C. gymnasium on Broad street, and the outside boys will arrive in the Capital early next week.

Tom McCune, a husky Detroit heavyweight, is in the city, and is looking for a match with any light heavyweight or middleweight on the coast. He is stopping at the Panama hotel, and may go on at the Victoria club smoker.

AT THE RANGES

CIVILIAN RIFLE CLUB.

Cold, bleak, and strong gusty winds was very much in evidence at Clover Point range on Saturday afternoon. Many good scores were spotted in consequence of changeable winds and dull light.

The scores were as follows, the first figure in each case being for 200 yards, the second for 500 yards, third for 600 yards, and the last the total:

TEAM CHOSEN.

London, May 5.—King George received to-day at Buckingham Palace, the English polo team which is to play in America next month for the international trophy. In doing this His Majesty followed the precedent established when he received the English polo team before its departure for America in 1911.

There has been some uncertainty as to the composition of the British polo team which is to attempt to win the international polo cup from the American team at Meadowbrook, Long Island, in June, but this was removed to-day when King George bade farewell to the challengers at Buckingham Palace. The chosen four were Captain R. C. Rison, Captain Leslie St. Charles, Captain Vivian Lockett and Captain Noel Edwards.

WPKAY GOES ALONG.

Toronto, May 5.—Five of the Riverside Athletic Club boxers, who cleaned up the classes at the recent Canadian boxing championship left Saturday afternoon for Boston, where they will compete in the American amateur championships next Tuesday. The boxers are Frank Pacey, the 115-pound Canadian champion, who will box in the 118-pound class; Charles Godden, last year's featherweight champion, who will enter the 115-pound class; Harry Hitchen, in the 125-pound class; Walter Jackson, in the lightweight, and George Harris, in the welterweight class. Scotty McKay, of Victoria, B. C., went with them with the intention of competing.

Mrs. Frank Waring (nee Miss Mabel L. Glasford) will hold her post-nuptial reception on Wednesday, May 7, at her home, corner of Menzies street and Niagara street.

ATTRACTION SALE HELD

Girls' Evening Branch of W. A. Represented Different Foreign Mission Fields.

A very successful sale of work was held last Saturday afternoon at Christ Church Cathedral schoolroom by the Girls' Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary of the church. The proceedings were formally opened at 3 o'clock by the Very Rev. the Dean of Columbia, the bazaar remaining open throughout the afternoon and evening.

There was a good attendance of visitors, sales being rapid, and the proceeds of the bazaar proving very satisfactory. The several stalls were most attractively decorated, while the tea-room, which was screened off from the schoolroom with a trellis of almond and cherry blossoms, was decorated to represent the mid-Japan field. The bazaar itself represented the different foreign mission fields in which the Women's Auxiliary is interested, the candy stall, which was arranged beneath a huge Chinese parasol, being one of the most attractive. Miss Whelan and Miss Wootton, the ladies in charge, were dressed in Chinese costume, the inscription "Hanan" being a reminder of the recent consecration of a Canadian bishop to that diocese. Others in Chinese costume were the attendants at the fish-pond, these being the Misses Cope, Winterburn and Charlotte Miles. The ladies in attendance at the plain and fancy work booth were dressed in Hindu costume, those assisting being the Misses Sill, D. Wootton, Cope and B. Le Sueur. The tea-room, which was well-patronized, was in charge of Mrs. Barton and Mrs. Dawe, the girls who assisted, wearing pretty Japanese costumes, being the Misses Choate, Robbins, Sill, Bagshawe, Smith, Cope and Hill.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By RUTH CAMERON

The Lady-Who-Always-Knows-Somehow and Molly were having a conference on the one subject that is always interesting to women. Molly had been shopping for a chiffon waist. She had looked in four shops without finding anything to satisfy her and the Lady was advising her to try W's.

The Wants-to-be-Cynic had been poking the fire and listening. Finally he broke out in comment. "If that isn't just like a woman. Been to four shops and going to some more. Catch a man doing anything like that!"

"No," retorted Molly, "of course you wouldn't. What a man does is to go into a shop and buy the first suit the salesman shows him, no matter what it looks like. Sometimes it happens to look decently on him and sometimes it doesn't. Take that gray suit you hated so that you scarcely wore it; if you had ever looked around would you have bought that? Didn't you tell me it was the first thing the salesman showed you? Catch a woman being that foolish!"

"Funny how different men and women are," ruminated the Cynic, swinging gracefully into a general discussion. "There's lots of little things like that which don't seem to have any particular connection with sex that they're as different about as can be."

"Yes," agreed the Lady-Who-Always-Knows-Somehow, "queer little things, too. For instance, did you ever notice that all women want to have the window shades kept even with the middle sash and all men want to run them sky high?"

"Men never can stand hot things the way women can," put in the Author-Man's wife. "Why, my husband never will drink anything until it's just about lukewarm."

"Women never will take a chance the way men will," contributed the Man-Who-Thinks. "For instance, nine women out of ten would rather have their husbands earn a steady income, even if it were small, than take a chance for bigger things. The normal man is just the other way around."

"Well, did you ever notice the way men always draw diagrams when they try to explain anything?" said Molly. "That's something you never see a woman do. Ask any man how to get anywhere and he whips out his pencil and an envelope and has a diagram drawn in twenty seconds. Ask ten women the same question and you wouldn't get a single diagram."

"One difference I notice particularly," said the Man-Who-Thinks, "is how much more patience women have than men and how much less ingenuity. Women endure, men cure. Men never would have stood the inconveniences of housework as women have. Give a man and a woman a daily task to do, hampered by some inconvenience, and the man won't do it more than once before he will be studying how to get rid of the inconvenience, while the woman will probably go on enduring until doomsday."

"Women certainly are queer things," said the Wants-to-be-Cynic. "Only one thing queerer," said Molly.

BAND CONCERTS RESUME

Hundreds of Citizens Attend at Beacon Hill Park—Animated Scene.

Though the weather was overcast and threatening the crowd in Beacon Hill Park yesterday afternoon, when the Fifth Regiment band concerts were resumed for the season, demonstrated that the public requires such a pleasant means of putting in the afternoon among the flowers.

Several hundreds attended and among them was the chairman of the parks committee, Alderman Dilworth. The solo of Mrs. Thomson was greatly appreciated, and the instrumental selections were fully up to the standard of this band.

NO MORE
DANDRUFF,
FALLING HAIR,
SCALP ITCH

Men and women—do you want a splendid head of luxuriant hair free from scalp itch and dandruff?

Do you want hair so bewitchingly radiant that it compels the admiration of all who see it?

Do you want a scalp as immaculate as clean and bright as a newly-minted coin?

Do you want to use a hair dressing that will surely prevent baldness, that always refreshes and invigorates and makes your entire head feel fine?

Then spend 50 cents this very day and get a bottle of PARISIAN Sage at any drug store or toilet goods counter. Use it as directed and you will never care to use ordinary tonic again.

No poisonous sugar of lead, no sulphur, no injurious ingredients in PARISIAN Sage. Ask for PARISIAN Sage. D. E. Campbell guarantees it.

Summer Cooking

Which is best? A coal that gets to work slowly, needs constant poking, keeps you standing over your stove on hot summer afternoons, and then burns all the evenings, or—a coal that lights at once, gets the oven hot in a few moments, burns brightly with a clear flame, needs no attention, does your cooking in half the time and leaves you free to enjoy the twilight hours?

If you want a coal which fulfills all the latter functions, you need our Nut Coal. It's the perfect summer coal and it costs you less.

Corns Ended Forever
For 15 Cents

Please stop and consider. The corns you are paring, and daubing, and doctoring can be ended forever in 48 hours. And without any discomfort. Apply a little Blue-jay plaster, and the corns disappear at once.

Then forget the corn. In two days take off the plaster and lift out the corn. This is the only scientific way to terminate a corn.

It is so efficient that folks now use it on a million corns a month. It is gentle and easy and comfortable. And Blue-jay does what nothing else will do. Try it on one corn.

A in the picture is the soft B & B wax. It loosens the corn. B stops the pain and keeps the wax from spreading. C wraps around the toe. It is unruined to be comfortable. D is rubber adhesive to fasten the plaster on.

Sold by Druggists—15c and 25c per package

LAST STUDENTS' RECITAL

Ladies' Musical Club Gives Non-Professional Concert Series With Pupils' Programme.

The second of the students' recitals held under the auspices of the Ladies' Musical Club of Victoria, and the last of the winter series of non-professional concerts to be given by this organization, was held on Saturday afternoon at the Alexandra Club, and proved highly successful. In addition to the long and interesting programme of students' numbers, in the course of which several pupils of local teachers exhibited marked talent, two professional musicians from Vancouver took part, these being Miss Cordelia Grylls, a former resident of Victoria, whose delightful and well-trained soprano was listened to with great pleasure by an appreciative audience; and Mr. Jasper Sutcliffe, a clever violinist who gave an interesting and musically rendering of three old Viennese dances, arranged by Kreisler, and Bach's prelude and Gavotte in E, this latter being particularly pleasing. Miss Grylls sang Scarlatti's "Violette"; Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me"; and Reichart's "Like the Roses Bloom," the last being the most ex-presively rendered of the three beautifully sung ballads.

The Misses Lavinia and Mabel Millington, pupils of Mrs. Bridges, opened the programme with Schubert's Valse Brillante, others taking part during the afternoon being Miss Theresa Robinson, pupil of Miss E. J. Walker, who played a Rubenstein Romance and Moskowski dance; Miss Nora Atkinson, violinist, a pupil of Miss Shrapnell, who played the first movement of the Mendelssohn Concerto; Miss Betty Crawford, a pupil of Mr. Benedict Bantley, who played a Schubert selection; Mrs. Manning, a pupil of Mr.

A. German, who sang two solos; and Master Bert Emery, a pupil of Miss Edith Byrn, who played the piano. Miss Una Calvert, a pupil of Miss Irene Long, gave two very clever pianoforte numbers, Chopin's Prelude (No. 15) and Fouldin's Marche Mignon.

THE MASKING SHOW

"Freckles."
Neil Twomey's dramatization of Gene Stratton-Porter's famous novel "Freckles," with all of its familiar characters and illusive scenes will be presented for the first time here at the Victoria this evening. When it became known that the wonderful popularity of Gene Stratton-Porter's novel "Freckles" was an absolute truth, and with the book gaining entree into thousands of homes, there were a number of New York producing managers, who immediately sought the dramatic rights to Mrs. Porter's story of the Lumberlost. Neil Twomey was given the dramatization. That he succeeded, is attested by four first-class companies playing this season.

The success of "Freckles" lies in its simplicity. There are no characters in modern fiction nor on the stage, endowed with such simple nobility, sweetness and wonderful delineation as has been given Freckles and The Swamp Angel. Mrs. Porter knows nature. She has lived all her life in the great Lumberlost Swamp region of Indiana, studying it and writing about it. She has achieved a position which can be disputed by none; her fiction and her plays are in popular demand.

Majestic Theatre.
A multiple reel production of Chas. Reade's famous novel, "It is Never Too Late to Mend," will be the feature to-day and Tuesday. The story affords well-marked melodramatic incidents which lend themselves naturally to an effective picture which is exciting and full of suspense. "Stolen Tribute to the King," an interesting picture of Tahiti that is as straightforward and as simple as the people from whose annals it was taken. "The River Wanganui," a scenic from the hills of New Zealand. "For His Child's Sake" is a Lubin drama. "Rule Thyself," a real comedy showing a man who is trying to control a bad temper, and an Irishman who shows him how to light a cigar in the wind.

WIRELESS TELEPHONY.

The Paris daily papers state that wireless telephone messages were lately sent over a distance of more than 600 miles from Rome to Tripoli. Wireless telephony does not appear to have made any marked progress until the present time, since the well-known work of Poulsen and Prof. Majorana's experiments in Italy. This latter inventor used a sensitive microphone of his own design and in this way the torpedo destroyer "Lanciers" covered 250 miles in the region of Sicily. However, the recent results obtained by Prof. Vanni of the military wireless institution, near Rome, are quite remarkable, as he is able to connect with a post in Tripoli, or about 600 miles from Rome. In these experiments he makes use of a liquid microphone based upon the ideas of Chichester Bell, brother of the celebrated Graham Bell. Using a microphone of this kind together with apparatus of the Moretti type the voice could be very well heard at Tripoli, and the persons there were able to recognize the professor's voice. A still more striking effect was had by using a phonograph to deliver the voice into the telephone transmitter, and even here the words were distinguished very clearly in the African post. After improving his apparatus, Prof. Vanni hopes to telephone between Rome and Paris. Although the distance is not over 730 miles, the natural obstacles, such as mountains and forests, will make the work more difficult than in the case of the over-sea transmission.

LEAD

By GEORGE MATHEY ADAMS

This world needs Leaders more than it needs any other breed of men. Every line of activity calls for Leaders—every Home, every Business, every Town—every Nation. As long as there are people there will be plenty to Follow. The demand is for those who can Lead.

Be a Leader.
The greatest asset in Leadership is Courage. Cowards never lead. Leadership requires great Patience. No one will follow an Irritable or Impatient Leader. Leadership requires Tact, Fairness and Confidence. One man can't Lead another who distrusts his Leadership. Many other things are important—but these things are Imperative.

Be a Leader.
A Leader must inspire and wake up the sleeping Powers in his followers. To be able to do this he must himself have a clean consistent Record. A man can't command without Authority—a man can't stir other people without first having stirred himself and become his own Master.

Be a Leader.
It is just as important to be a Leader in your own Home or Town as to be a Leader in your Country. It isn't the special station in which a man Leads that makes his work important, but it's How he Leads. This thing is true—that if you Lead well in the little affairs of life you can't keep from becoming a Leader in the big affairs.

Letters for publication in Daily Times must be received at the Times office not later than the day before the day of publication. When received later they will be held over until the following day. While unobjectionable anonymous communications will be published, the name and address of every writer of such letters must be given to the editor.

VANCOUVER ISLAND DOES NOT NEED MISREPRESENTATION.

To the Editor:—Referring to the letter appearing in your issue of May 1st, mild criticism contained therein will to most thinking people appear well timed. Most of us are not seriously interested in the disillusionment of the tourist, a body of people who are almost necessarily well-to-do, and constituted of two distinct classes—the seasoned tourist and the nouveau riche. The former has learned by experience to take publicity efforts cum grano sale, and the latter discover amongst their first travelling experiences some need for a measure of the same philosophy.

There is, however, another and more serious aspect of this matter in a national sense. Those of us who have moved about in its varied aspects of settlement cannot fail to have been impressed by the, in many cases, direct results of indiscriminate immigration methods, which have up to now not only been adopted by local authorities, but sanctioned and supported by the government.

I have seen middle-aged people of good breeding and superior education and attainments who, responding to the alluring "bait" and vivid word pictures of the emigration agent, have realized their small capital and foolishly left assured positions of moderate comfort to take up farming propositions, remote from railroads and civilization, under conditions which the competent farmer with less than five minutes' consideration would see left success not a vague chance, but an absolute impossibility. I have seen these people slowly degenerate, weighed down with the misery of their surroundings and the realization of their own unfittedness, their small capital gone past recall, their children suffering all the disadvantages of meagre education and lack of suitable associates, gravitate in sheer desperation to the towns and cities in the hope of recovering "the boats which were burned." There by grit and application some of them made good, many of them didn't. And yet after all the great crying need of the country is for settlers, strong, able-bodied men and women who are fitted to deal with the strenuous demands of agriculture and other manual toil, and whose training and upbringing leaves their new surroundings without painful contrast.

Scattered about this country to no meagre extent are literally thousands of hopeless failures, people who are suffering a more bitter disillusionment than the tourists who find that Victoria doesn't measure up to the Colonist and other standards, people who are too soured by their disappointments ever to become good citizens. Yet it is a fact that there is existent in Victoria to-day an organized corporation engaged in disseminating broadcast statistics or descriptions, or whatever else you like to call them, as to Vancouver Island, statements which are made without check or hindrance, with the sole aim and intention of inducing the stranger that is without to enter into our gates, be he or she suitable or unsuitable, well or ill, rich or poor, and the recently revealed connection of this organization with certain real estate and other professional concerns is at least calculated to color their intentions with something other than philanthropy. The public funds of the city, notwithstanding their present unfortunate condition, have been penalized to the extent of some $4,000 in support of this unbridled institution. A trace upon your methods. The country demands immigrants. We all know it. But let us not about obtaining the right kind of settler, obtain them with truthful, unvarnished statements, help them with our own honest advice, so that they may be the better prepared to cope with new conditions. The country's good enough; it will not suffer from the telling of the truth.

GROUCHER NO. 2.

A daily hydro-aeroplane service has been inaugurated between Nice and Monte Carlo. The price of the trip is $60, and the greater part of the journey is made just off the Mediterranean shore. For the greater assurance of the passengers the machine is at present followed by a motor, but this is not intended as a permanent feature, and it is thought that its presence will not be required after the comfort and safety of the trip has become recognized.

RECEPTION TO ARCHDEACON

Dean Calls on Clergy and Church Warden to Welcome Archdeacon Scriven.

A letter, addressed by the Very Rev. the Dean of Columbia, to the clergy and church warden of the diocese of Columbia, announces the holding of a public reception to Archdeacon Scriven on his return to Victoria after a prolonged absence, as an expression by the clergy and people of the esteem and affection in which he is held.

The letter runs:

To the Reverend the Clergy and the Church Warden of the Diocese of Columbia.

Early in May we hope to have the archdeacon back again, after his serious illness and the long rest from work which, in consequence thereof, he was obliged to take in Southern California. It has seemed to many that the occasion of his return presents a favorable opportunity for the diocese to join together and give him some small evidence of the affection and esteem in which he is held by everyone who either knows him or knows of him, and of our deep appreciation of his long, loving and faithful services rendered to the church for nearly 30 years.

At a meeting held in Victoria last week it was decided that the following programme should be adopted:

1. The holding of a public reception in Victoria as soon after Archdeacon Scriven's return as possible.
2. The presentation to him on this occasion of an illuminated address of welcome and appreciation.
3. The presentation to him of a purse of gold at the same time and place.

I am sure that this will meet with your most hearty and enthusiastic approval, and I am writing to ask that you make the proposed action widely known so that the archdeacon's many friends in all the parishes may have the opportunity of subscribing, and so making the amount really worthy of the occasion, and in some degree indicative of the good will which goes out to him from the community in which he has held, and holds, a position so unique and honored.

We are anxious to have the subscription list closed as soon as possible, and I therefore trust that whatever action you take regarding your own parish may be taken promptly, that it will be carried through energetically I know full well.

The treasurer of the synod, Percy Wollaston, has kindly consented to act as treasurer of the fund, and all subscriptions should be sent to him at his address, care of Messrs. Wilson Bros., Herald street, Victoria, B. C.

Due notice of the date upon which the reception will be held and the presentation made will be given later on.

Believe me, yours very faithfully,
A. J. DOULL,
Dean and Commissary.

WILL TEST RAILWAY.

Scenic Line at Gorge Will Be Tried Before People Are Carried.

The scenic railway at the Gorge park will be put to a preliminary test next Friday. Good progress is being made with the construction of this lofty trestle among the trees. The opening date was planned for May 16, and although the time is short Mr. Porter is certain that the line will be open to the public by that date. Many people visited the scene yesterday to note the progress upon the work.

CIVIC PROPERTY IS WORTH THREE MILLIONS

Value of Municipal Lands and Buildings Appears in Annual Report

From the annual report of the city council which has just been published it appears that the value of the market hall site is $350,000, with $50,000 improvements upon it. It is pointed out that this will be a valuable asset when the time comes to start the civic centre proposal. By that time, it is expected the property will be worth half a million dollars, or two-thirds of the cost of the proposed scheme for a civic centre as suggested by Anderson Gleason last year. In this total is included the central fire hall, and the Figuard street site of the new police station which must be downtown. Otherwise the departments housed in the market building could carry on their duties just as well in places where the value of the site would be considerably less.

The land upon which the city hall is built is valued at $185,000, and there is $80,000 worth of improvements thereon. This estimate is an extremely reasonable one, as the property would doubtless sell for a sum beyond that figure, should it come into the market. The library site, which is estimated at $120,000 now, was purchased cheaply only a few years ago, and with $50,000 improvements it has become one of the most valuable corners in the city.

Every other department's quarters have increased in the valuation made this year. The total city property is valued at about $3,000,000. This, of course does not include the land held in trust, such as Beacon Hill park, the value of which alone is set down at $2,000,000. The comparatively low figure of $105,000 for the 250 acres of Mount Douglas park is pointed out to indicate that the estimates are all well within the mark.

HEAVY MONTH FOR POLICE

Many Gambling Cases Handled; First Aid Administered to 45.

Fifty-nine of the 317 persons hauled to police court by arrest or summons last month were discharged, 5 committed for trial and 253 convicted. There were 408 cases handled in the police station, 268 arrests, 49 summonses, 45 for safekeeping and one insane person. Among the court cases there were 46 for gambling and 22 for opium offences, excluding the three sweepstake cases, which were listed under lotteries.

The motor patrol answered 353 calls and first aid was given by the department to 45 persons out of the 52 who met with accidents in the city during the 30 days. The causes of the various accidents were industrial 9, vehicles 11, asphyxia 1, insanity 3, delirium tremens 3, and sudden illnesses 18.

A vessel was recently launched in the Puget Sound with steam up, ready to proceed on her way.

SHIP BUILDING IN CANADA

The Argument for Government Aid

Ottawa, April 26.—What the steel shipbuilding and repair-men urge in their memorandum to the Borden government means that the Canadian system of transportation is worse than weak on its water end. Shipbuilding does not seem to get the same favors as the railways, the one being under almost free trade conditions, and the other enjoying the full benefits of protection.

It is not necessary to discuss the relative merits of free trade and protection to say that the government should not make fish of one and flesh of the other. The square deal would be to put both on an equal footing. In no other way will water rates ever curb railway rates, and that is presumably the theory of water competition. The railways have little to fear from water traffic as long as there are so few Canadian ships on lake and ocean that a rate of eleven cents a bushel can be charged on wheat to Liverpool.

Canada has a wonderful system of waterways. The Great Lakes are as big as some European seas. The ocean coast lines are long and thickly indented with fine harbors. The chain of lakes and rivers extends inland 2,500 miles, almost to the front door of the prairies, while Hudson Bay knocks at the back-door. What all this water wants is wheat. It could carry all of the wheat all of the way if it could get it, and also if it had the ships to carry it. Meanwhile, it has strong claim to carry more of the wheat more of the way than it does now, and doubtless it would do so if the conditions were helpful. As it is, the steel shipbuilding and repair industry languishes. The railways have the long end of the stick.

On the St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes is an enormous fleet of steel steamships. This year they will carry 90,000,000 tons of freight, which is 10,000,000 tons more than three years ago. This fleet is overwhelmingly American. The whole of Canada's registered tonnage in steam coastwise vessels large enough to venture into rough water is 200,000 tons. About 4 per cent. of the vessel tonnage on the Lakes is owned in Canada; 4 per cent. more is owned in Great Britain and not registered in Canada; 92 per cent. is American. American vessels carry 80 per cent. of our water freight. Canadian ships carry only one million tons to every nine million tons carried from Canadian ports by outsiders, in addition to which is the Canadian trade that goes from American ports. We are using non-Canadian ships and non-Canadian ports. We spend fifty million dollars a year on water freights and over three-quarters of it goes to build up other peoples' home markets.

This American fleet is stringently protected and in turn is obliged to support the American shipbuilding industry. No non-American ship is allowed to do business between American ports. No ship built outside of the United States is allowed to become an American ship. Under this system the American ship and the American shipyard have alike flourished. The Canadian fleet, on the other hand, is far less strongly protected. While the Canadian coast-wise trade is nominally confined to Canadian vessels and to vessels of British register if built in Great Britain, the privileges have frequently been extended to Norwegian and other vessels. What's more, the Lake trade is thrown open, from time to time, to American vessels, and in good times, when freight rates are high, the Canadian ship-owner has his protection further nibbled at by the British tramp steamer, which comes in free of duty on everything—hull, machinery, equipment, engine room stores, crockery, silverware, bedding, linen and so on, on all of which the Canadian ship-owner must pay duty. Since 1900 there have come into the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence district 90 steamships from the United States, 60 from Great Britain, and 40 from Great Britain unregistered in Canada—189 in all. These ships cost $13,000,000 to build. During the same period our shipyards on the Lakes have constructed about 32 ships, at a cost of $7,000,000. In other words, in twelve years, out of $25,000,000 worth of ships doing Canadian business in Canadian waters, $18,000,000 worth were built outside of Canada, and helped to build up non-Canadian home markets. What makes it worse is that the Canadian shipbuilders made no profit on their $7,000,000 worth of Canadian-built ships. They practically built them for cost and looked to repairs and local works for profits.

Canada has no correlated protection for shipyards, such as the United States has. It is just here that the government policy for water transportation falls down. One hundred million dollars have been spent on Canadian canals—canals that are open to all competitors. Another hundred and fifty millions have been spent on aids to navigation, ocean and river services, lighthouses, buoys, and so on. Perhaps three hundred thousand dollars has been handed out in bonuses to dry-docks and bounties on net tonnage constructed. Although this is a fair amount of initial help, it is not half of the amount accorded to railways, and the fact that it has not been followed up with a subsidiary policy of encouragement to the cognate industries growing out of water transportation has rendered it comparatively ineffective. So far as water transportation is concerned, Canada has carefully provided the tail, but has omitted to provide the dog that wags it.

The railways have had no such half luck. In the direct building of railways, the intercolonial and the National Transcontinental, Canada has spent over two hundred million dollars. Cash grants to railways, loans, land grants, and guarantees of credit from federal and provincial governments represent three hundred millions more. Altogether railway aid amount to half a billion dollars, and the thing doesn't stop there. The tariff is specially built to direct traffic to East and West lines and throw business to Canadian lines instead of American lines. The tariff also obliges the railways to purchase rails, locomotives, cars and other equipment as far as possible in Canada. This has built up subsidiary industries, such as rolling mills, locomotive works and car shops, and has given indirect but substantial encouragement to coal and iron mining, the lumber industry, foundries, machine tool factories and such. Last year, the C.P.R. alone, spent forty-eight million dollars. One way and another the railways maintain a million people in Canada.

The general development policy which Canada has applied to railways has been as successful as the half-hearted policy applied to water transportation has been unsuccessful. Under a cloud as it is, the shipbuilding industry in Canada supports some eighty thousand people, and there is no reason in this country of magnificent water facilities why it should not support ten times eighty thousand, if the conditions are right. Time was when wooden shipbuilding was a leading resource of the Maritime Provinces and Quebec, but when the iron ship replaced the wooden one Canada was not far enough ahead industrially to keep pace with the new conditions. Now that Canada has a well established steel industry to serve as a basis, what prevents her building her own steel ships and taking her place again as one of the shipbuilding nations of the world?

Some day or other Canada aims to build her own Dreadnoughts. Experience shows that the right way to procure plants equal to the construction of naval vessels is to develop a healthy mercantile shipbuilding industry. The fluctuations are greater in naval than in mercantile construction, and it needs mercantile work to steady the situation with regard to naval vessels. As a shipyard cannot be building battleships when they are not wanted, it follows that there should be a variety of work in hand, so that the yard can keep steadily employed the large staff of workers which the exigencies of lake traffic demand.

The Canadian shipyards began life as repair establishments, and to a large extent they remain repair establishments to this day. Lake carriers are especially liable to bottom damage, such damage sometimes running as high as one hundred thousand dollars. As it costs up to a ship during the season, there is no insurance against loss of time, these repair jobs have to be done at high speed. The management of a shipyard must be able, at an hour's notice, to lay their hands on three hundred to one thousand skilled workmen. As they cannot keep such a force lying idle between repair jobs they must have some permanent work on hand on which they can employ their men in ordinary times. In a word repair work goes hand in hand with new construction if a shipyard is to make good and pay dividends.

American shipyards are so efficiently protected by the American tariff that all the American repair business goes absolutely to American yards. Canadian shipyards, on the other hand, are up against American competition, and in that way lose a great deal of the Canadian repair business which would be theirs if the duty on repairs were stiffened up and enforced.

A great deal could be written about the advantage of a great shipbuilding industry in Canada, the specialized employment it would develop, the wages it would pay out, the additional population it would create, the increased volume of business that would result, but the main point to remember just now is that the shipbuilding industry is entitled to a fair start. It will have to creep before it begins to walk, but that is no reason why stumbling blocks should be placed in its way. Canadian shipyards now pay the government fair-wage rate, as against the competition of non-Canadian yards which do not have to pay the Canadian fair-wage rate. Much of the steel that Canadian shipbuilders use is protected; rivets, for example, carrying a duty of 5 1/4 per cent.

One way and another, the shipbuilders make out a pretty strong case for government action. If the repair business is not to escape to the United States, if the building of steel ships is not to go there too, if there are to be enough Canadian ships to take care of Canadian water-borne commerce, something will need to be done. The situation demands good drydocks, big repair plants and thousands of workmen. The big repair plant, as was shown before, depends upon new construction, and new construction depends upon government encouragement.

What form the encouragement should take is a moot question. On that point the shipbuilders seem to have an open mind. It might be bounties, it might be protection, it might be free raw materials. The Liberal mind would probably lean to free raw materials as not violating Liberal principles, or to bounties as coming back to the state in the shape of duties, but a Conservative protectionist government would doubtless get at it the other remaining way. Whatever the scheme of aid is, it should be guaranteed for a period of ten or fifteen years, since it takes that long at least to get an organization established and show results.

BIRTHDAY CALENDAR

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Do not wander and waste time in frivolity, for by these you will forfeit quiet friendships of real advantage. At home your earnest work will bring prosperity to all. TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

On May 5, 1908, it was unanimously decided at a meeting of the city council that Earl Dudley, Governor-General of the Commonwealth of Australia, and Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, High Commissioner for the Dominion of Canada, should be admitted to the Honorary Freeman of the City of Bristol. It was appropriate that such a compliment should be paid by the city fathers of this borough to representatives of the "Overseas Dominions," for Bristol owed its early importance to its port; and from it went out not only John and Sebastian Cabot, but many another explorer to seek, and claim for England, new lands beyond the seas. Recently a new port has been made lower down the Avon for the docking of the leviathans which carry the ocean trade of our modern day, and the port whence the Cabots sailed looks, to say truth, like the broadening out of some canal, so strangely does the shipping lie in the narrow waterway in the very heart of the old city. But in times past many a fortune was made in trade with America by the tiny vessels which tied up at Bristol quay.

DAILY MAIL SERVICE TO THE WEST COAST

Committee of Board of Trade Takes Subject Up; Alberni Excursion

No arrangement has yet been made in connection with the inauguration of a daily train service to Port Alberni to change the system of three mails a week to the west coast to a daily system. The committee on trade and commerce of the board of trade has been called together for to-morrow morning to consider the question and make a recommendation to the postal authorities.

The secretary of the Vancouver Island Development League, Ernest McGaffey, is working on the proposal to take a citizens' excursion over the Esquimalt & Nanaimo railway to the west coast port at an early date. Mr. McGaffey says he hopes to see representatives of the board of trade, real estate exchange, his league, and the Progressive Club take part in the excursion, and he expects that the scheme will be well supported by Victoria citizens. It was not possible to take a party for the inauguration of the daily service as a little time is to elapse before the arrangements are concluded. A hearty welcome is assured the delegation by the citizens of the twin cities.

Closely Associated With Life of Victoria.

The many friends of the Venerable Bishop Cridge, who for some time past has been in failing health, will be relieved to learn that he suffered a slight relapse on Friday last, and is in a very weak condition. He is, however, doing as well as can be expected under the circumstances, for it will be recalled that the aged bishop, who has a wonderful constitution, last December celebrated his ninety-fifth birthday.

It is more than fifty-five years since Bishop Cridge arrived here from England, making the journey via Cape Horn, since which time he has been closely identified with many of the leading movements of the Island. He was appointed bishop in 1876, and was one of the original provisional committee appointed by Governor Douglas to arrange for the building of the Royal Jubilee hospital.

He was also one of the originators for the erection of an Orphans' home, and said the opening prayers at the first parliament in Vancouver Island the year after his arrival here. On the occasion of Queen Victoria's Jubilee he addressed a big crowd at Beacon Hill park, and blessed the soldiers who went from here to the South African war, 1899.

For many years past he has lived in retirement, occasionally receiving his friends, however, and always exhibiting a keen and live interest in the movements of the world about him, and particularly in the progress of the Reformed Episcopal church all over the world.

ARRANGING LUNCHEON

Canadian Club Makes Preparations to Hear Dr. Falconer, of Toronto.

Arrangements are in progress for the Canadian Club luncheon on Friday at the Alexandra Club at which Dr. Falconer, president of the University of Toronto, will speak. He will be the first guest of the club since the new officers were chosen. The secretary has not heard yet from Col. Allen, Minister of Defence for New Zealand, whom he is seeking to bring here on his way West.

SPECIAL SERVICES

COMMEMORATE EVENT

First Presbyterian Congregation Meet for Worship in Old Building for Last Time

The services in the First Presbyterian church yesterday were of a special nature in commemoration of the fact that they were the closing public services in the old church which has been the place of worship for the congregation for the past fifty-two years. The church was organized in 1861, and was the first Presbyterian church to be built west of Winnipeg, Rev. Joseph Hall being the first minister, and the first sacrament of the Lord's Supper being observed according to the rites of the Presbyterian church for the first time in the city in January, 1862.

The services yesterday were very impressive, the church being crowded at the morning services, and between two and three hundred people being turned away from the doors in the evening because of lack of accommodation.

Rev. Dr. Campbell assisted at the morning services, reading the lessons, and giving a short address, while the special musical services included solos by Mr. R. Morrison and Mr. Donald Fraser. Preaching from the text: "My people have forgotten their resting place," Rev. J. S. Inkster, the pastor, tabulated these as God's Word, God's House, God's Day and God's Altar, giving statistics from his actual observations among the members of his congregation here and elsewhere to show that professed members of the church were careless with regard to the teaching of God's Word. In China, he pointed as an example, educators went to some trouble to disseminate the teachings of the Bible. The congregation, too often, he said, placed the wrong emphasis on the importance of the priestly function or the prophetic function, by making too much in one church of the communion table, or in another of the pulpit. The church should be a place to render unto God, not a place to receive something. Referring to the purpose of God's Day, the speaker said that this had been given in order that every man, woman and child, might have one day of rest, but the religious side, viz., the exercising of the soul, had been forgotten. The point which the pastor emphasized, however, was that the congregation should, in removing to the new church, make new pledges to read their Bibles, to attend the church and worship there, and to set up their family altars and there invoke God's blessing.

Evening Services.
Venerable Dr. Reid, former pastor of the church, read the lessons at the evening services. Rev. Mr. Inkster giving an eloquent sermon on the text: "Speak to the children of Israel to go forward."

Next Sunday the congregation will meet at the old church at 10.30 a. m. and will march in procession to the new hall, which has been erected at the rear of the site of the new church. The procession will be led by Professor Patterson, of San Anselmo, California, who is now lecturing in Westminster hall on church history. The sacrament of Baptism will be celebrated at the first service in the new church, corner of Flanagan street and Quadra street, on Sunday morning, while the following day, Monday, there will be a grand rally of the congregation in the evening at the new building.

In connection with the removal of the congregation to the new church, it is interesting to learn that Mr. Harry Charlesworth, a graduate in music from Cambridge University, and a graduate in arts from London University, who is at present teaching in the North Ward school, has been appointed organist and choirmaster of the church. Mr. Charlesworth brings with him the highest recommendations from Sir Frederick Bridge, organist of Westminster cathedral, and will take charge of the choir for the first time on Friday evening, at the usual weekly practice, and, at the opening of the new hall, will conduct a service of praise.

To Audit Books.—Charles A. Forsythe, accountant, has been appointed to make an audit of the books of the Bankers' Trust Corporation.

ALBERNI Turner-Craig Acreage Addition

2-1/2 and 5-Acre Blocks

This property is situated on Lot 158, in Alberni District, and is inside of the three and one-half mile circle from Alberni.

It is on the Stamp River, one of the many splendid trout fishing rivers in the district. It is ideal for canoeing, swimming, etc.

This property is on the north side of the Stamp River, and slopes gradually towards the south. It is level, and the soil is ideally adaptable for fruit-raising, vegetable gardens, etc.

A fisherman buying one of our 2 1/2 acre waterfront blocks would have an ideal homesite, within easy reach of town and with the finest of trout and salmon fishing from the property.

There is a school within one mile from this property, and good roads lead to it. A power plant capable of a development of 100,000 h.p. is being installed at Stamp Falls, one mile above this property. This will mean that within a short time there will be electric light in every home in the district.

We are selling these well, but he was not in the same class with Roy Roy, even though he did show his best performance since he started hurdling. Premier, owned by J. D. Farrell, of Portland, started out well, and looked to have a chance. He halted, however, at seven feet, though Jockey Horace took him to the barrier three times.

Tried High Jump.

Stanley Carter, who was riding Sioux, gave one of the greatest exhibitions of gameness ever seen in the Capital. He was tossed twice, once very badly, but after his animal had showed he could not clear the six feet nine inch jump, he endeavored to pilot Sioux over the seven-foot barrier. He failed, but by a narrow margin. Later, J. Horace, who had been riding Premier, took Sioux in charge, and endeavored to clear seven feet four inches, but the Calgary entry could not make the leap. A strange rider accounted for his inability to hurdle the barrier, even though Horace is counted upon as one of the best jockeys on the coast.

Further excitement was caused when the trotters in training at the Willows entered the ring. There were over ten horses in this event, and several of the more spirited animals broke their sulks through their impromptu bursts of speed. Anticars, a Vancouver entry, took first in this event. Victoria's mounted police went through an interesting drill under ringmaster Clements, and loud applause greeted the efforts of the "finest." Several local classes rounded out the evening's performance.

Class 50—High Jump.

1. Rob Roy, J. MacMillan, Vancouver; 2. Sioux, Count de Roaldes and Count de Chamace, Calgary; 3. Muskrat, J. A. Coldwell, Vancouver.

Expectations Upset.

It was conceded by all that Sioux, the Calgary jumper would win, but here was the upset of the form chart. Rob Roy was known to be a consistent jumper, but Sioux, who had won at Vancouver, had such a record that he was a prohibitive favorite. In justice to the owners of the Prairie hurdler he was unable to show his best efforts, his rider having suffered blood poisoning in his left hand, which he had strapped to his side. The MacMillan entry, however, was the only animal of the quartette to clear his jumps without having to return for a second effort, and he fully deserved to win. Muskrat, ridden by Taylor, did
